Life Sciences and Radiation Jürgen Kiefer,2004-02-20 The book contains the proceedings of an international workshop held in Giessen in October 2002 that explored the potential of radiation research in the life sciences The contributions demonstrate that the development of molecular biology and cell biology is intimately linked with the application of radiation methods It is shown that the study of the cell cycle and of intercellular communication as well as recent achievements in radiation therapy and the understanding of carcinogenic processes are not possible without radiation research Repair of genetic damage cannot be studied without the analysis of radiation induced damage and its modification The book thus details the great importance of radiation research in the whole field of life sciences and constitutes not only an important source book for radiation scientists but also an introduction in the field for the nonspecialist interested in the state of the art in radiation research The Nature-study Review Maurice Alpheus Bigelow, Fred Lemar Charles, Elliot Rowland

Shang, 2018-08-20 The life and chemical sciences are in the midst of a period of rapid and revolutionary transformation that will undoubtedly bring societal benefits but also have potentially malign applications notably in the development of chemical weapons Such concerns are exacerbated by the unstable international security environment and the changing nature of armed conflict which could fuel a desire by certain States to retain and use existing chemical weapons as well as increase State interest in creating new weapons whilst a broader range of actors may seek to employ diverse toxic chemicals as improvised weapons Stark indications of the multi faceted dangers we face can be seen in the chemical weapons attacks against civilians and combatants in Iraq and Syria and also in more targeted chemical assassination operations in Malaysia and the UK Using a multi disciplinary approach and drawing upon an international group of experts this book analyses current and likely near future advances in relevant science and technology assessing the risks of their misuse The book examines the current capabilities limitations and failures of the existing international arms control and disarmament architecture notably the Chemical Weapons Convention in preventing the development and use of chemical weapons Through the employment of a novel Holistic Arms Control methodology the authors also look beyond the bounds of such treaties to explore the full range of international law international agreements and regulatory mechanisms potentially applicable to weapons employing toxic chemical agents in order to develop recommendations for more effective routes to combat their proliferation and misuse A particular emphasis is given to the roles that chemical and life scientists health professionals and wider informed activist civil society can play in protecting the prohibition against poison and chemical weapons and in working with States to build effective and responsive measures to ensure that the rapid scientific and technological advances are safeguarded from hostile use and are instead employed for the benefit of us all Annual Catalog - United States Air

Weapons Michael Crowley, Malcolm R. Dando, 2022-11-22 This book explores how revolutionary developments and convergence of the chemical life and associated sciences are impacting contemporary toxin and bioregulator research and examines the risks of such research being misused for malign purposes Investigating illustrative cases of dual use research of potential concern in China India Iran Russia Syria and the USA the authors discuss how states can ensure such research and related activities are not utilised in weapons development Although toxins and bioregulators are in theory covered by both the Biological and Toxin Weapons Convention and Chemical Weapons Convention this apparent overlap in reality masks a dangerous regulatory gap with neither Convention implemented effectively to address threats of weaponisation This book highlights the potentially damaging consequences for international peace and security and proposes realistic routes for action by states and the scientific community
