EVIDENCE: Bowlby's (1944) "Study of 44 Juvenile Thieves"

Aim: To determine whether there is a correlation between maternal deprivation in infancy and adolescent delinquency.

Procedure:

- Bowlby studied a group of 44 juvenile thieves (Group 1) who attended a child guidance clinic, and compared them with a control group of 44 adolescents (Group 2) "who though emotionally disturbed, did not steal".
- Testing: IQ test, test assessing child's emotional attitudes towards the test, social worker interviews parents, Bowlby interviews child and parent.

Findings:

- More than half of the juvenile thieves had been separated from their mothers for longer than six months during their first five years.
- 14 of the young thieves (32%) showed 'affectionless psychopathy' (they were not able to care about or feel affection for others). None of the control group were affectionless psychopaths.
- 86% of the 'affectionless psychopaths' in group 1 had experienced a long period of maternal separation before the age of 5 years (they had spent most of their early years in residential homes or hospitals and were not often visited by their families).

Conclusion:

- This study supports Bowlby's Maternal Deprivation Hypothesis which states that if an infant was unable to develop a "warm, intimate, and continuous relationship with his mother or permanent mother substitute, then the child would have difficulty forming relationships with other people and would be at risk of behavioral disorders later on.
- So breaking the maternal bond with the child during the early stages of its life is likely to have serious effects on the child's intellectual, social and emotional development.
- This study showed a link between early separation and later social and emotional maladjustment.
- Maternal separation/deprivation in the child's early life caused permanent emotional damage. He diagnosed this as a condition and called it "Affectionless Psychopathy".
- This is because of a lack of emotional development, characterised by a lack of concern for others, lack of guilt and inability to form meaningful and lasting relationships.

EVALUATION:

- Evidence is correlational, which means that we can only say that deprivation/ separation and affectionless psychopathy are linked, not that one caused the other.
- The data on separation were collected retrospectively and may not be reliable. Parents may not have accurately recalled separations during infancy. They may have over- or under-estimated the frequency.
- Not possible to accurately determine whether these children experienced deprivation (the loss of emotional care) or whether they had good substitute emotional care during their separations.

SUPPORT: Harry Harlow

- Study provides animal research that shows how early maternal deprivation leads to emotional damage.
- He took baby monkeys and raised them in isolation. They were then placed in cages with access to surrogate mothers. One made out of wire with milk and one covered in soft cloth.
- Harlow found that monkeys spent more time with the cloth mother highlighting how the security of a caregiver is more important than other necessities.
- He found that the monkeys that were isolated without any parental figure or type of caregiver lead to emotional stress on the monkey.

SUPPORT: Neurobiological Theory

- Suggests a scientific, biological explanation to problems in social relationships from people who have experienced emotional trauma in their childhood.
- Adverse Childhood Experiences have the potential to alter the development of:
 - Structure (prefrontal cortex)
 - Neural networks (synapse connections)
 - Biochemistry of endocrine system (cortisol)
- These problems lead to altered emotional responses that could affect the quality of their social relationships later
