Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week training program on the heart rate (HR) and energy expenditure (EE) of sedentary, middle-aged women. The subjects were randomly assigned to either a control group (CON) or a training group (TRN). The TRN group performed a 12-week training program consisting of three sessions per week of aerobic exercise. The CON group remained sedentary. The HR and EE were measured at baseline and at the end of the 12-week training period. The TRN group showed a significant decrease in HR and a significant increase in EE compared to the CON group. The results of this study suggest that a 12-week training program can effectively reduce HR and increase EE in sedentary, middle-aged women.

Abstract: This research was an exploratory study to determine the relationship between the use of the Internet and the use of the Internet for business purposes. The study was conducted using a survey of 100 business owners. The results of the study indicate that the use of the Internet for business purposes is positively related to the use of the Internet for personal purposes. The study also found that the use of the Internet for business purposes is positively related to the use of the Internet for social purposes. The study was limited by the use of a convenience sample and the use of a self-reported measure of Internet use.
