Henry James, 2003-03-10 This Library of America volume collects four novels written by Henry James in the period immediately following his unsuccessful five year long attempt to establish himself as a playwright on the London stage Hoping to convert his infinite little loss into infinite little gain James returned to the novelistic examination of English society with a new appreciation for what he called the divine principle of the Scenario a key that working in the same general way fits the complicated chambers of both the dramatic and the narrative lock His continued interest in dramatic form is demonstrated in The Other House 1896 which was derived from the scenario for a three act play Set in two neighboring houses and told mostly through dialogue the novel explores the violent and tragic consequences of jealousy and frustrated passion In The Spoils of Poynton 1897 one of the most tightly constructed of James's late novels a house and its exquisite antique furnishings and artwork become the source of a protracted struggle involving the proud and imperious Mrs Gereth her amiable son Owen his philistine fiancé Mona Brigstock and the sensitive Fleda Vetch whose moral judgment is tested by her conflicting allegiances What Maisie Knew 1897 explores with perception and sensitivity the effect upon a young girl of her parents bitter divorce and their subsequent remarriages In writing the novel James chose as his point of view what he described as the consciousness the dim sweet scared wondering clinging perception of the child The Awkward Age 1899 examines the complicated relations among the members of a sophisticated London social circle almost entirely through dialogue as it depicts the shifting marital prospects of a young woman poised on the verge of adult life Both of these novels insightfully explore the ambiguity of childhood innocence amid adult struggles over money power and love

Approaches to the Visual in Religion Daria Pezzoli-Olgianti,Christopher Rowland,2011-06-16 The authors of this volume investigate the analysis of visual sources and their indispensable role for understanding and interpreting religions their symbol systems and the wider traditions of which they are a part A particular interest in this study is the focus on the methodological challenge of images from a comparative perspective The common concern that ranges over all the contributions is the search for a methodological perspective where images may be analysed in a comprehensive way with particular regard for the social and wider intellectual settings as well as the religious in which the images are embedded Accordingly we seek to show that visual sources need to be interpreted from different angles In the last decades a broad range of publications has contributed to highlight the significance of images and visual media in general for understanding religious traditions communities and discourses in both historical and contemporary perspective In more recent research streams focussing on visual media in religious traditions and symbol systems various avenues have opened up and been explored focussing on the status of images and of the gaze of the viewer as central aspects Furthermore there are illuminating contributions dealing with the theoretical premises and settings with which to approach the visual as a central component of religion on the one hand giving an overview of essential definitions and implications on the other hand concentrating on specific techniques and or media Practice Makes Practice Deborah
