Experts,2019-12-04 What Is This Thing Called Happiness? Fred Feldman,2010-03-18 According to an ancient and still popular view sometimes known as eudaimonism a person's well being or quality of life is ultimately determined by his or her level of happiness According to this view the happier a person is the better off he is The doctrine is controversial in part because the nature of happiness is controversial In What Is This Thing Called Happiness Fred Feldman presents a study of the nature and value of happiness Part One contains critical discussions of the main philosophical and psychological theories of happiness Feldman presents arguments designed to show that each of these theories is problematic Part Two contains his presentation and defense of his own theory of happiness which is a form of attitudinal hedonism On this view a person's level of happiness may be identified with the extent to which he or she takes pleasure in things Feldman shows that if we understand happiness as he proposes it becomes reasonable to suppose that a person's well being is determined by his or her level of happiness This view has important implications not only for moral philosophy but also for the emerging field of hedonic psychology Part Three contains discussions of some interactions between the proposed theory of happiness and empirical research into happiness

The Effect Of Frequent Positive Emotions On The Formation Of Brand Attachment Kevin J. Zuchanek,2020-06-04 Bachelor Thesis from the year 2018 in the subject Business economics Offline Marketing and Online Marketing grade 1.7 University of Wuppertal language English abstract This paper aims to show the effect of frequent positive emotions on the formation of brand attachment Therefore this paper will start by looking at several current research findings to determine definitions for divisive terms and to build up a conceptual framework which supports the constructed hypotheses on the formation of brand attachment More endorsement is given by a realized quantitative study which researches positive emotions and constituents of dependent variables like brand attachment Even though variances are inevitable a study on the topic ought not to be rendered to be redundant since the topic lacks scientific studies in comparison to other economic fields due to novelty By juxtaposing the framework and study in opposition to the hypotheses one will see to which extent frequent positive emotions lead to positive outcomes which results then find their way into marketing departments and provide action alternatives Current researches have discovered that there is a connection between feeling good and attaching oneself to an entity This entity referred in the past exclusively to human entities however economists are emphasizing the equality between human beings and inhuman entities like brands Happiness as already mentioned is a value which is hard to capture because of the lack of a universal definition and also because feelings are difficult to inquire into due to the fact that present circumstances always have their effects on the current state of an individual This makes variances in the measurement of happiness inevitable
