Setswana Paper 2 2014 Final Examination:

Language and Decoloniality in Higher Education Zannie Bock, Christopher Stroud, 2021-05-20 Language and Decoloniality in Higher Education brings together a collection of diverse papers that address from various angles the issue of decoloniality language and transformation in higher education It reflects the authors cumulative years of experience as educators in higher education in different southern contexts Distilled as case studies the authors use a range of decolonial lenses to reflect on questions of knowledge language and learning and to build a reflexive praxis of decoloniality through multilingualism Besides a number of decolonial perspectives which readers will be familiar with this volume also explores a conceptual framework Linguistic Citizenship developed over the past two decades by scholars in southern Africa In this collection Linguistic Citizenship is used as a lens to think beyond the inherited colonial matrices of language which have shaped this region and many other southern contexts for centuries and to re imagine multilingualism and semiotics more broadly as a transformative resource in the broader project of social justice Although each chapter has firm roots in the South African context these studies have much to offer others in their quest for better worlds Of particular interest to global scholars are the authors recounts of how they have grappled with leveraging the country s multilingual resources in the project of promoting academic access and success in the face of historical hierarchies of language and social power

National Literacy Survey 2014 ,2016 The Social Practice of Human Rights Joel R. Pruce, 2015-06-16 The Social Practice of Human Rights bridges the conventional scholar practitioner divide by focusing on the space in between The volume brings together cutting edge chapters that together set a new agenda for research grounded in the practice of critical self reflection on the strategies that drive communities dedicated to the advocacy and implementation of human rights The social practice of human rights takes place not in front of a judge but in the streets and alleys in the backrooms and out of the way places where change occurs Contributors to this volume investigate the contexts and efforts of activists and professionals devoted to promoting human rights norms This research takes as its subject the organizations and movements that shoulder the burden of improving respect for human dignity It argues that through a constructive critique of these patterns and practices scholarship can have a positive impact on the political world Sustainable Development Goals and Institutions of Higher Education Godwell Nhamo, Vuyo Mjimba, 2019-09-14 This volume brings together both theoretical and case study based contributions to the implementation of the Sustainable Development Goals SDGs in Institutions of Higher Education IHE presenting an impactful combination of authors from both developing and developed countries While most current publications addressing the SDGs and education focus on sustainable development in general and specific topics such as climate change or energy this book attempts to accelerate the localisation of the SDGs by presenting opportunities and innovations offered in various universities and campuses regarding SDGs localisation The book seeks to provide an important contribution to the global dialogue on IHE and the SDGs and will be of interest to academics and researchers engaged in the SDGs and education as well as government agencies and other interested stakeholders The book focuses on curriculum and learning matters research and development as well as community engagement Case studies detail the integration of SDGs in academic and professional development new approaches to implementing sustainability science instruction improvements in teaching practices to enhance teacher competence and responsible management education Additional focus is placed on the alignment of the SDGs in higher education with the other goals emphasizing technological innovation for improved human health and environmental management and climate change policies and action plans Interdisciplinary solutions for pressing environmental problems are also provided making sure that no one is left behind in realising these global development goals The Oxford Guide to the Bantu Languages Lutz Marten, Ellen

Hurst-Harosh, Nancy C. Kula, Jochen Zeller, 2025-08-19 This volume brings together leading scholars from Africa Europe the Americas and beyond to provide a detailed account of the languages of the Bantu family which cover an area from Cameroon and Kenya in the north to South Africa in the south The Bantu family is part of the Niger Congo phylum and one of the world's biggest language groups comprising around 500 languages The family includes major languages with large numbers of speakers such as Zulu Kinyarwanda and Swahili the most widely spoken and taught African language as well as many community languages and several endangered languages Bantu languages feature prominently in the complex and multilingual language ecologies that are characteristic of the linguistic situation in much of Africa and they provide rich evidence for the study of theoretical and comparative linguistics language contact and language change They play an important role in education commerce culture and artistic expression in the media and public discourse in governance and social justice and are central to the future of the continent and the well being of its communities The first part of The Oxford Guide to the Bantu Languages provides background and context with chapters exploring the history of research in the field language and prehistory in Bantu speaking Africa and typology and variation Chapters in the second part offer broad comparative overviews of Bantu phonology morphology syntax semantics and pragmatics socio and applied linguistics before Parts III-VII cover more specific topics in Bantu linguistics across a variety of subfields ranging from structural issues such as the augment and melodic tone to historical and sociolinguistic topics such as Bantu languages in the diaspora and language policy and standardization The chapters in the final part offer individual structural overviews of a range of languages from across the Bantu speaking area The book will be an essential resource for students and researchers specializing in the Bantu languages and for typologists and comparative linguists more broadly The Conjoint/Disjoint Alternation in Bantu Jenneke van der Wal, Larry M. Hyman, 2016-12-19 This volume brings together descriptions and analyses of the conjoint/disjoint alternation a typologically significant phenomenon found in many Bantu languages The chapters provide in depth documentation comparative studies and theoretical analyses of the alternation from a range of Bantu languages showing its crosslinguistic variation in constituent structure morphology prosody and information structure Handbook of Literacy in

Diglossia and in Dialectal Contexts Elinor Saiegh-Haddad, Lior Laks, Catherine McBride, 2022-03-14 This volume is the first published collection of papers on the impact of diglossia and dialectal variations on language and literacy acquisition impairment and education. The authors are pioneering in this field and are leading researchers with substantial experience in conducting research in this area. A wide range of areas and languages are covered including the US, South Africa, Israel, and various European countries. The chapters present novel data and insights regarding the role of dialectal variations on language and literacy from a wide range of countries and perspectives. These insights have significant theoretical and practical implications. A majority of literacy learners worldwide are taught to read and write in a language variety or a dialect that is not the same as their spoken language. Not only is this the global norm but it is probably also the greatest obstacle to literacy learning. This volume is the first published collection of papers on the role of dialect in language and literacy acquisition impairment and education in a variety of languages and situations across Europe, the Middle East, North America, Africa, and Asia. The authors are pioneers in this field.

Artificial Intelligence and Mental Health Care Jorge Piano Simoes, Peter ten Klooster, Jannis Kraiss, Patrick K. A. Neff, Uli Niemann, 2024-08-09 New developments in machine learning (ML) and artificial intelligence (AI) hold great promise to revolutionize mental health care. In this context, ML and AI have been deployed for several different goals including: 1) the early detection of mental disorders; 2) the optimization of personalized treatments based on the individual characteristics of patients; 3) the better characterization of disorders detrimental to mental well-being and quality of life, as well as a better description of projected trajectories over time; and 4) the development of new treatments for mental health care. Despite their great potential to transform mental health care and occasional breakthroughs, ML and AI have not yet fully achieved these goals. This research topic aims to bridge the gap between the potential uses of ML and AI and their practical application in standard mental health care. More specifically, we welcome original research submissions applying ML and AI to promote public health by reducing the burden of chronic disorders with detrimental effects on well-being, e.g., psychopathological distress, and improving quality of life. We also welcome submissions applying ML and AI in heterogeneous datasets, e.g., subjective scales and questionnaires, biomarkers, neuro-psychological assessments, etc., from Big Data sources, e.g., large datasets of clinical populations, electronic health records from nationally representative cohorts, and/or biobanks. Studies using experiencing sampling methods, etc., to gain mechanistic insight on how different chronic conditions associated with psychopathological distress can affect patient well-being and quality of life. Finally, we also welcome opinion papers and reviews on how to develop AI applications in mental health care responsibly while integrating biopsychosocial aspects of patients to promote better mental health care.
