Cornelius,2016-10-21 The narrative re tellings of the life reign and death of the English King Edward II reigned 1307-1327 present a unique opportunity for scholars of sexuality in the early modern era. This is because the works of authors like Christopher Marlowe, Michael Drayton, Sir Francis Hubert, Elizabeth Cary, and Richard Niccols were all inspired by the public cultural memory fashioned from Edward's same sex love affair with Piers Gaveston. As such, each of them presents a particular representation of and a specific discourse about male-male sexual relations in the Renaissance. In other words, what these works present is a concentrated body of literature about same sex love in the early modern era: works that openly and frankly explore the possible origins of the love, the reasons and causes for it; works that explore the ramifications of male-male romantic relationships; works that explore the sexual politics and sociocultural dynamics of same sex romantic partnerships; and works that describe and denote same sex love from an English Renaissance perspective. This study looks at each of the major Renaissance texts about Edward II and examines the means through which each text understands and analyzes the nature of male-male same sex love. From Marlowe's crafting of a lover identity for Edward to Drayton's obsession with Marlowe's version of gay history, from Hubert's Augustinian construction of Edward's nature to Cary's identification with the fallen king to Niccols' inspired exemplum, what each of these works demonstrates is that the love that dare not speak its name would not be silenced at least not in the case of Edward and Gaveston. When one sees the name Edward II, one also sees his same sex loves. The correlation has become ingrained into our public recall of history. Thus, as far as the world is concerned, Edward II was and ever will be the gay king.

Tin House Special 50th Issue: Beauty Win McCormack, Rob Spillman, Lee Montgomery, Holly MacArthur, 2011-12-13 Tin House is a beautifully designed periodical that features the best writers of our time alongside a new generation of talent poised to become the most important voices of the future. For the special 50th issue, Tin House has some fun with the idea of beauty, providing personal takes on what is beautiful. The issue showcases fiction, poetry, and nonfiction that confront the notions of beauty across cultures, economic strata, genders, and races. What is beauty? What is art? Think of Francis Bacon: "There is no excellent beauty that hath not some strangeness in the proportion." This new issue also includes pieces that look into the marketing of beauty and how notions of beauty are used to create celebrity and at the same time to marginalize and exclude. Content includes unique departments such as "Lost and Found" in which writers review overlooked or underrated books, and "Blithe Spirits and Readable Feast" which present tales and recipes for drinks and food in a literary way.

Sexing the Teacher Sheila Cavanagh, 2007-05-10 Sexing the Teacher is a provocative study of public and professional responses to female teacher sex scandals in Canada, the United States, and Britain. Sheila Cavanagh examines the moral and professional panic over sexual transgressions in the educational milieu by analyzing several sensationalized legal cases, including Mary Kay Letourneau, Amy Gehring, and Heather Ingram. Deploying queer theory, psychoanalysis, postcolonial theory, and feminist film theory, Cavanagh analyses deep-seated anxieties about white female teacher sexualities and offers a critique of the damage that gets done in the name of child protectionism. Arguing that foundational assumptions about race, gender, class, sexuality, and family are all central to the panic Cavanagh questions the conventional wisdom and politics governing our conceptualization of sex scandals in education She also demonstrates that public upset over female teacher sexual transgressions ostensibly about child welfare is also about the regulation of gender heteronormative and white reproductive futures a hidden curriculum in Western educational systems Timely original and controversial Sexing the Teacher will appeal to scholars and students in education sociology gender sexuality and cultural studies as well as to general readers interested in the sensationalism over school sex scandals that has dominated recent headlines
