Stein, 2008-07-22 Although it is generally accepted that the Arctic Ocean is a very sensitive and important region for changes in the global climate this region is the last major physiographic province of the earth whose short and long term geological history is much less known in comparison to other ocean regions This lack of knowledge is mainly caused by the major technological logistic problems in reaching this harsh ice covered region with normal research vessels and in retrieving long and undisturbed sediment cores During the the last about 20 years however several international and multidisciplinary ship expeditions including the first scientific drilling on Lomonosov Ridge in 2004 a break through in Arctic research were carried out into the central Arctic and its surrounding shelf seas Results from these expeditions have greatly advanced our knowledge on Arctic Ocean paleoenvironments Published syntheses about the knowledge on Arctic Ocean geology on the other hand are based on data available prior to 1990 A comprehensive compilation of data on Arctic Ocean paleoenvironment and its short and long term variability based on the huge amount of new data including the ACEX drilling data has not been available yet With this book presenting 1 detailed information on glacio marine sedimentary processes and geological proxies used for paleoenvironmental reconstructions and 2 detailed geological data on modern environments Quaternary variability on different time scales as well as the long term climate history during Mesozoic Tertiary times this gap in knowledge will be filled Aimed at specialists and graduates Presents background research recent developments and future trends Written by a leading scholar and industry expert Geology and Geochemistry of Molybdenum Deposits in the Qinling Orogen, P R China YanJing Chen, Franco Pirajno, Nuo Li, XiaoHua Deng, YongFei Yang, 2022-01-01 This book is the first systematic treatise of available data and view points obtained from geological and geochemical studies of the Mo deposits in Qinling Orogen China Qinling Orogen has a minimum reserve of 8.7 Mt Mo ranking the largest molybdenum province both in China and the world Incorporating all known Mo deposit types in the world it presents extensive studies of Mo deposits of world class and unusual types within tectonic settings The Qinling Orogen was finally formed during continental collision between Yangtze and North China cratons following the Triassic closure of the northernmost paleo Tethys It hosts 49 Mo deposits formed in seven mineralization events since 1850 Ma with all the world class deposits being formed during 160–105 Ma coeval with collisional orogeny These deposits are assigned to magmatic and metamorphic hydrothermal classes The magmatic hydrothermal class includes porphyries skarns and intrusion related veins carbonatite fluorite and quartz The porphyry Mo systems in Qinling Orogen are predominated by Dabie type formed in continental collision setting followed by Endako and Climax types formed in continental arcs and rifts respectively The metamorphic hydrothermal Mo deposits are only reported in Qinling Orogen

and thus a new crustal continuum model for the orogenic class mineral systems is proposed A scientific linkage between ore geology and fluid inclusions is introduced and verified both by theory and case studies This is the first research book comprehensively displaying continental collision metallogeny This literature will benefit both Western and Chinese mineral explorers and miners as well as research scientists and students

The Handbook of Experimental Economics John H. Kagel, Alvin E. Roth, 2020-05-05 This book which comprises eight chapters presents a comprehensive critical survey of the results and methods of laboratory experiments in economics The first chapter provides an introduction to experimental economics as a whole with the remaining chapters providing surveys by leading practitioners in areas of economics that have seen a concentration of experiments public goods coordination problems bargaining industrial organization asset markets auctions and individual decision making The work aims both to help specialists set an agenda for future research and to provide nonspecialists with a critical review of work completed to date Its focus is on elucidating the role of experimental studies as a progressive research tool so that wherever possible emphasis is on series of experiments that build on one another The contributors to the volume Colin Camerer Charles A Holt John H Kagel John O Ledyard Jack Ochs Alvin E Roth and Shyam Sunder adopt a particular methodological point of view the way to learn how to design and conduct experiments is to consider how good experiments grow organically out of the issues and hypotheses they are designed to investigate
