Neuromuscular Quick Pocket Reference Maryam Rafael Aghalar, Rawa Jaro Araim, Lyn Weiss, 2011-12-28

Neuromuscular Quick Pocket Reference provides easy and efficient access to common physical examination techniques and other neurological tests performed in a broad range of specialties. Mainly composed of tables, charts, and photographs, this handy reference puts together and organizes the information that clinicians use on a daily basis. The first part of the book covers musculoskeletal physical exam by region. Each entry is formatted and includes test name, purpose, techniques, clinical findings, for positive test, sensitivity, specificity, and sources. Photographs showing proper placement and action accompany most entries and provide a visual blueprint for successfully replicating tests in the exam room. The second part of the book is devoted to common neurological tests and scales for on-the-go reference, including muscles, motor points, dermatomes, and myotomes; spasticity findings; radiculopathies; traumatic brain injury assessment; stroke scales; pressure ulcers; and much more. Features of Neuromuscular Quick Pocket Reference include: Pocket sized for portability and ease of use; Covers common neuromuscular assessment tests performed on a daily basis; Technical photographs enhance understanding and help hone point of care exam skills; Sensitivity and specificity of each test is displayed; Presents frequently used neurological tables and scales for quick look up of essential patient care information.

Improving the Chain of Recovery for Acute Stroke in Your Community National Institute of Neurological Disorders and Stroke (U.S.). Symposium, 2003. Stroke Pocketcard Set David Palestrant, 2009. This card discusses the management of acute stroke, the localization of stroke based on clinical symptoms, various prognostic scores, and other management topics. Most of the management information on this card pertains to ischemic stroke. Specific topics covered are as follows: Guidelines for management of patients who are receiving tPA; Guidelines for intra-arterial thrombolysis and mechanical clot removal; Information on stroke localization and relevant syndromes; Illustrations with the vasculature and vascular territories of the brain; Definition and classification of TIAs; Information on the prognosis of stroke based on the NIH NIHSS; Information on imaging modalities used in stroke diagnosis, their advantages and disadvantages; Stroke workup information; General guidelines for hospital management and supportive care; Guidelines for the prevention of secondary stroke; Guidelines for the prevention of cardioembolic stroke; Guidelines for carotid endarterectomy.

Enrique Carlos Leira, 2007. The Change of the National Institute of Health Stroke Scale in Patients with Acute Ischemic Stroke at Baseline and Discharge and Its Prediction on Prognosis, 2017. Objective: To evaluate the change of NIHSS score in patients with acute ischemic stroke at baseline and discharge. Methods: This was a study of multicenter stroke registration in our country; a total of 54 centers are involved. This study assessed the neurological deficit score NIHSS of patients admitted to hospital corrected demographic data health insurance type clinical classification risk factors past medical history Multivariate regression analysis was used to analyze the influence factors of NIHSS score on the outcome of discharge Then changes in NIHSS with baseline at discharge and the relationship between NIHSS and MRS were compared Results 5473 ischemic stroke patients were recruited The NIHSS score at discharge was significantly lower than the baseline with an average reduction of 1 points a median of between the ages of four and a score of 0 to about 3 The left lower limb movement was the most obvious All items of NIHSS had influence on prognosis like age level of consciousness consciousness level instruction awareness of questioning gaze facial palsy sensation visual fields limb movement sensation ataxia dysarthria language extinction and inattention multivariate regression analysis shows facial palsy the level of consciousness instruction vision Limb movement effects on the prognosis of patients At the time of discharge NIHSS score decreased significantly compared to the baseline Conclusion The NIHSS score at discharge was significantly lower than the baseline with an average reduction of 1 points interquartile range 0.5-3

Utilizing the National Institute of Health Stroke Scale Score to Decrease Length of Stay for Cerebrovascular Accident Patients Margaret Deyo-Allers,2005 DISCREPANCY BETWEEN NATIONAL INSTITUTE OF HEALTH STROKE SEVERITY SCALE (NIHSS) AND FINAL INFARCT SIZE AFTER ACUTE ISCHEMIC STROKE. Jason Ings,2017 Evidence derived from recent clinical trials show that if initiated within 24 hours and continued for 30 days combination therapy of Aspirin and Clopidogrel DAPT improves outcomes by lowering risk of subsequent ischemic events in patients with Acute Minor Ischemic Stroke AMIS NIHSS 3 and Transient Ischemic Attack TIA Studies have shown that after acute ischemic stroke AIS NIHSS score and the size of ischemic infarct seen on neuroimaging predict stroke severity and are important determinants of hemorrhagic transformation HT In our study we intend to show that after ischemic stroke there can be potential discrepancy between NIHSS score and infarct size volume estimated on early repeat neuroimaging A MODEL TO EVALUATE INITIAL STROKE SEVERITY USING PARAMETERS REQUIRING MINIMAL TRAINING FOR ACUTE

ISCHEMIC STROKE PATIENTS Heejin Chang, 2017 Background and Purpose We tested whether adding two dysarthria and facial weakness PASS2 to the three parameters of Prehospital Acute Stroke Severity PASS scale could improve the estimation of initial stroke severity in the emergency room Methods We used five PASS2 parameters age month gaze and arm weakness dysarthria and facial weakness and National Institute of Health Stroke Scale NIHSS score prospectively collected from consecutive 509 ischemic stroke patients who arrived at emergency room within 72 hours of the onset of symptoms We developed two regression models to equate the correlation that the PASS parameters and the PASS2 parameters each have with the actual NIHSS score of individual patients The performances of the PASS and the PASS2 were compared to see which model produces results closer to the NIHSS evaluation of stroke severity Results We acquired regression model equations with the 3 PASS parameters NIHSS $1.91 \text{ age} + 0.67 \text{ gaze} + 0.46 \text{ Arm weakness} + 0.303$ and the 5 parameters NIHSS $1.36 \text{ age} + 0.701 \text{ Arm weakness} + 0.269 \text{ gaze} + 0.441 \text{ dysarthria} + 0.92 \text{ facial weakness} + 0.99$ The results showed that the PASS $r = 0.752$ $p = 0.001$ has a higher correlation with the initial NIHSS evaluation than the PASS2 $r = 0.715$ $p = 0.001$

Mobile App Based Strategy to Reduce Door to Needle Time in Acute Ischemic Stroke, 2017 Background Time to revascularization is critical in improving outcomes in stroke patients We hypothesized that a mobile app can help reduce door to needle time by taking the stroke team through the clinical pathway along with real time notifications Methods Consecutive patients presenting to the Emergency Department between April 2017 March 2018 with acute stroke were entered in a mobile app with patient parameters timer NIH stroke scale NIHSS thrombolysis checklist and tPA dose calculator The app also enabled team synchronization by notifying all members and of the patient movement in real time along with sharing of images Door to needle time DNT captured from the app was entered into a spreadsheet and compared to previous values from our center Findings 62 patients were thrombolysed while using the mobile app The mean DNT was 45 min with 89% being thrombolysed within 60mins These patients were compared with 100 consecutive patients who were thrombolysed in the months prior to April 2017 where the mean DNT was 57min with 67% thrombolysed within 60mins A mean DNT decrease of 12 minutes was seen with 1.3x increase in DNT

FINDING THE BEST APPROACH TO ANALYZE THE NIHSS AT 24 HOURS TO MEASURE TREATMENT EFFECT IN TRIALS OF ACUTE STROKE Nadinda van Ende, 2017 Background NIH stroke scale NIHSS is increasingly used as outcome in RCTs of acute stroke treatment but no consensus exists on how to analyze the effect of treatment on NIHSS Our aim is to study what the best approach is to analyze this important early indicator of treatment effect Methods We used the data from the MR CLEAN trial $n = 500$ in a bootstrap analysis with 5000 runs to estimate valid and generalizable treatment effect parameters based on NIHSS Missing values for pertinent outcome and baseline variables were imputed with single regression if less than 4% NIHSS was analyzed with 5 different approaches identified in the literature For the approaches that used regression models unadjusted and adjusted estimates for age baseline NIHSS and collateral score were calculated We added the effect on mRS for comparison We compared the effect estimates between the different approaches and the Z statistic as a measure that combines strength of the effect and precision Results Baseline characteristics were evenly distributed between intervention and control NIHSS scores at 24 h and 1 week were available with less than 1% and 4% missing values The absolute z value of the regression model of the effect of EVT on mRS at 3 months was 3.12 and 3.15 after adjustment Z values for any type of effect analysis of NIHSS at 1 week were not better than those at 24 hours data on poster figure Z values for plain NIHSS and change in NIHSS from baseline were substantially lower than the reference value Z values for dichotomized NIHSS exceeded the reference only for two of the three dichotomizations The z value of the effect parameter ΔmRS exceeded the reference but only barely so for fair improvement The effect parameter difference in log NIHSS at 24h exceeded the reference Discussion Using plain NIHSS or change in NIHSS in a linear regression model to estimate the effect of acute stroke treatment is not an efficient and sensitive approach Dichotomizing the NIHSS in good outcome or improvement seems efficient but the best cut point will vary unpredictably depending on the patient population and chance We conclude that analysis of the effect of treatment on the full NIHSS scale with linear regression on log transformed data provides an efficient way to analyze early treatment effects with the NIH stroke scale
