Gunzenhauser, Osly J. Flores, Michael W. Quigley, This book describes a model for educational leadership ethics that provides a critical reflective vision of what education can be for all children in K 12 schools The authors of Race Conscious Caring in Educational Leadership conducted interviews with 22 school leaders who shared their visions toward serving students of color The resulting model is built around the four features demonstrated by the strongest leaders race consciousness critical caring justice leadership and ethical praxis Race conscious caring leaders go beyond their good intentions to develop deep understanding of the needs and interests of their students they learn about racial identities and histories as strengths and sources of learning and they provide opportunities for educational experiences that are routinely denied to marginalized and minoritized students This book provides numerous examples of race conscious caring leaders with key analysis of where leaders fall short It is designed to help future and current leaders to critically reflect on their own experiences challenging them to build their capacity for transformative change Book Features Provides instructors with a unique text that integrates equity leadership and professional ethics Describes a comprehensive model that challenges leaders to improve across multiple dimensions especially if they are strong in some areas and not as strong in others Presents the ideal for each part of the model along with examples of partial fulfillment and what it looks like when a leader evidences very few of the ideals Incorporates examples and excerpts from school leaders who demonstrate varied levels of engagement with the model to help readers see themselves in the various categories Addresses the challenges today's leaders are facing due to policies and political climates working to pull back on equity work Research Report ,1961

Limnological Organic Analyses by Quantitative Dichromate Oxidation John A. Maciolek,1962 A limnological oxidation technique based on procedures employed in soil chemistry was developed and tested by use of purified organic compounds and various natural substrates A sample is oxidized by dichromate in a strongly acid medium maintained at 100 C The amount of dichromate reacting determined titrimetrically as the difference between the initial and final quantities is reckoned as Oxygen Consumed or weigh of oxygen required by the sample The oxidation serves as the principal step for sensitive determinations of organic carbon as CO₂ and nitrogen as NH₃ Consumer Price Index Manual International Labour Office,2004-08-25 The consumer price index CPI measures the rate at which prices of consumer goods and services change over time It is used as a key indicator of economic performance as well as in the setting of monetary and socio economic policy such as indexation of wages and social security benefits purchasing power parities and inflation measures This manual contains methodological guidelines for statistical offices and other agencies responsible for constructing and calculating CPIs and also examines underlying economic and statistical concepts involved Topics covered include expenditure weights sampling price collection quality adjustment sampling price indices calculations errors and bias organisation and management dissemination index number theory durables and user costs Books in Print Supplement ,2002
