Takako Izumi, Miwa Abe, Kumiko Fujita, Rajib Shaw, 2024-10-12 This book presents case studies of risk management of various hazards and risk management systems at regional national and local levels It also proposes a comprehensive approach to reduce future risks by collaborating with various stakeholders and preparing for the most effective responses toward complicated hazards minimizing social damage The COVID 19 pandemic has increased the concern as well as interest in the diversification of future risks and the complexity of the damage and impact that multiple risks may cause These hazard risks include not only natural hazards but also biological industrial and nuclear hazards along with other risks such as cyber attacks climate change food security conflict and multiple hazards occurring simultaneously The Sendai Framework for Disaster Risk Reduction adopted in 2015 at the United Nations World Conference on Disaster Risk Reduction accounts for the risks caused by natural or manmade hazards as well as related environmental technological and biological hazards and risks The framework guides the multi hazard management of disaster risk in development at all levels and sectors However in the current disaster management system in most countries different offices are responsible for each different hazard making it extremely difficult to manage those hazard risks comprehensively Having experienced the COVID 19 pandemic it is now time to review the current risk management strategy and system and thereafter discuss how to strengthen and transform our risk perception and manner of risk assessment and identification to tackle future multiple hazards Simultaneously further collaboration among experts from different backgrounds and fields will become indispensable While the discussion of the need for an all hazards approach has taken place for many years there now needs to be discussion of a risk focused framework     Environmental Sociology and Social Transformation Magnus Boström,Rolf Lidskog,2024-06-07 Environmental Sociology and Social Transformation demonstrates how sociological theory and research are critical for understanding the social drivers of global environmental destruction and the conditions for transformative change Written by two professors of sociology who are deeply involved in the international community of environmental sociology Magnus Boström and Rolf Lidskog argue that we need to better understand society as well as the fundamentally social nature of environmental problems and how they can be addressed The authors provide answers to why so many unsustainable practices are maintained and supported by institutions and actors despite widespread knowledge of their negative consequences Employing a pluralistic sociological approach to the study of social transformations the book is divided into five key themes Causes Distributions Understandings Barriers and Transformation Overall the book offers an integrative and comprehensive understanding of the social dimension of unsustainability societal inertia and conditions for transformative change It provides the reader with references from classic and contemporary sociology and uses pedagogical features including boxes and questions for discussion to help embed learning Arguing that a broad and deep social transformation is needed to avoid a global civilization crisis Environmental Sociology and Social Transformation will be a great resource for students and scholars who are exploring current environmental challenges and the societal conditions for meeting them     Current Research ,1982
