"Self-esteem and self-confidence are necessary to success, do you agree?" Self-esteem is the means by which an individual has confidence in themselves or a good opinion about themselves and self-confidence is the means by which an individual trusts their own abilities, quality and judgement. A balanced self-esteem and self-confidence are both important and relevant for every human being in their lives, it helps one gain inner confidence and a good opinion of themselves.

If you have low self-esteem and self-confidence, you often believe negative about a situation or yourself and you may focus on what you feel are your weaknesses, and mistakes that you have made, you also do not trust yourself as much as you should. Having high self-esteem and self-confidence can sometimes lead to an increase in self-obsession and thinking you are capable of anything. It is important for students to have self-esteem and self-confidence as it helps students take responsibility over things they are capable of doing, as it means the students will approach situations in a positive way.

In this essay I will discuss and argue if I believe self-esteem and self-confidence is necessary to success or not. The article "Punishment, not praise" by Chris Woodhead -Sunday Times, 5th April 2007 – has many arguments for self-esteem and self-confidence, the article is aimed at parents to praise their children for what they do even if they are badly behaved, the purpose of the article is to advise parents to punish their children and not to praise them for undesirable behaviour.

Chris Woodhead uses the device of Rhetorical question to get the reader thinking or to engage the parents to read on, Chris Woodhead questions the parents asking "How many times have you praised your out-of-control little monster today?" His argued point is that parents should stop praising badly behaved "little monsters" and the rhetorical question has been used to get the parents thinking or considering punishing their children for their actions more, he is also implying with the question to make the parents think about how many times they have praised their children.

Chris Woodhead carries onto giving statistics as "Five to one is the ratio of praise to punishment" he uses this to back up his argument to parents praising their children rather than punishing.

Chris Woodhead is implying that if children are not disciplined and home or punished, they will also find it hard at school because "the first thing they will tell you is that they had to deal with pupils who would not accept the conventions of normal schooling" this suggests that parents need to constantly check on their response to their children's behaviour as even schools do not accept it and the government also advice parents on this because this could affect their future because if they don't get the grades in school due to their behaviour then it's difficult for them to fi

Essays on the Real Church Dirk J. Smit, 2024-08-15 The spirit of the Reformation is often expressed in the well known slogan that Reformed churches are always being reformed according to God's Word ecclesia reformata semper reformanda secundum verbum Dei Over the last century the spirit of this slogan motivated someone like Dietrich Bonhoeffer to argue that the visible form and life of the church should reflect the truth and message of the church Already in his doctoral dissertation called Sanctorum Communio the communion of the saints the young Bonhoeffer combined theological claims and traditions with social theory and analysis in this spirit in an innovative way to study the nature and integrity and witness of the church At the time this was a radical claim with major consequences and challenges for Protestant churches Their life which meant their order structure actions statements convictions public presence and role was to be measured by their gospel which meant their message proclamation convictions claims They could no longer proclaim one truth yet live a different life It was this spirit which led to the well known Theological Declaration of Barmen in 1934 and to the formation of the Confessing Church in Nazi Germany Many called this a moment of truth a status confessionis It was this same spirit which later inspired the struggle in South Africa for the integrity and faithfulness of the church and for the credibility of its message proclamation and witness The contributions in this volume 52 papers essays sermons studies were all produced in this spirit Most of them have not been published before They were all occasional pieces written over several decades in different contexts and for different purposes and audiences yet they all breathe this self critical spirit of the Reformation considering whether the real church the concrete every day actual living church that people know and experience and perhaps belong to truly strives to embody the gospel itself the message which it claims and proclaims They all inquire under different circumstances and in diverse ways about different social forms of the real church from worship to congregation from denomination to ecumenical church from individual believers to movements and organisations whether and how they embody the truth of the church or not Together these contributions tell a story the story of this spirit in South African circles over several decades but also in the ecumenical church in our globalizing world They offer one small glimpse into different concrete moments in the story of this spirit in the life of this tradition and community of faith Hopefully some of these accounts may resonate with others who also shared the same spirit and still share it today in new and ongoing ways
