Solid state portable radio receiver

An outstanding feature of the Roberts RSC, a recently opened radio station is the incorporation of an improved circuit design, a small apparatus consisting of a very small set of components, which requires a small amount of power. The amplifier has disappeared, and the required degree of sensitivity is achieved by means of a novel filter.

Manufactured covered two main, 5802-0001s, (1,600-5400) and two, 5,100-2,000ms (200-5000), respectively, was within the intended finite rod pedal assembly on a bar-type serial bar which a single point co-axial socket is fitted at the top of the case adjacent to the volume control knob.

Complementary symmetry is employed in the three-transistor a.c. amplifier which drives a 15W by 25mm ECLC ultrasonic transducer which produces an acoustic output power in excess of 5W. A normally closed miniature jack located at the top of the case adjacent to the tuning control knob enabled an operator to be connected for personal listening to the same tone during the interval between scans.

Operating power is supplied by a 9V battery (Ever Ready type PP3 or its equivalent).

Wiley InterScience www.interscience.wiley.com

Voltages quoted in the table, col. 3, were obtained from data supplied by the manufacturers and are all positive with respect to battery negative. There was no signal input, the volume control was at minimum and they were measured as a 50,000Ω/V source.
