Friedrich Max Müller and the Sacred Books of the East Arie L. Molendijk,2016-07-21 This volume offers a critical analysis of one the most ambitious editorial projects of late Victorian Britain the edition of the fifty substantial volumes of the Sacred Books of the East 1879 1910 The series was edited and conceptualized by Friedrich Max Müller 1823 1900 a world famous German born philologist orientalist and religious scholar Müller and his influential Oxford colleagues secured financial support from the

India Office of the British Empire and from Oxford University Press Arie L Molendijk documents how the series has become a landmark in the development of the humanities especially the study of religion and language in the second half of the nineteenth century The edition also contributed significantly to the Western perception of the religious or even mystic East which was textually represented in English translations The series was a token of the rise of big science and textualized the East by selecting their sacred books and bringing them under the power of western scholarship Gypsies and Orientalism in German Literature and Anthropology of the Long Nineteenth Century Nicholas Saul,2007 Gypsies and Orientalism in German Literature and Anthropology of the Long Nineteenth Century Kant's Transcendental Psychology Patricia Kitcher,1990 In this innovative study the author argues that we can only understand the deduction of the categories in Kant's Critique of Pure Reason in terms of his attempt to fathom the psychological prerequisites of thought The Sacrament of Confession as a William Schmitt,2001 Adrienne von Speyr in her book Confession and throughout her writings speaks of the confession of Jesus Christ This is a startling use of the term because Christ never sinned The author examines all the writings of von Speyr in the light of Roman Catholic soteriology and sacramental theology and in view of the influences that existed between her and Hans Urs von Balthasar The author then shows how the theme of confession is central to von Speyr's writing aids in illuminating her theology of Holy Saturday and the Paschal Mystery and serves as the basis for the renewal of the sacrament of confession The Day God Saw Me as Black Danyelle Thomas,2024-10-29 The Day God Saw Me as Black is a genre defying cultural critique of white supremacy in the Black Pentecostal religious experience through the lenses of race gender sexual expression and class analyses A narrative that weaves between critique and meditation decolonization and reconciliation the theoretical and the deeply personal The Day God Saw Me as Black is an imagining of what could be if we stopped denying ourselves and each other full liberation Using Visual Technology in Educational Ethnography Rita Chawla-Duggan,2024-06-19 Introducing readers to debates underpinning the uses of visual technology in educational ethnography this book takes actual research projects across different country contexts to discuss how research designs can use visual technology in educational ethnography to show connections between theory method and research problems The book begins by introducing readers to three epistemological positions underpinning the use of visual technology in social science and educational research the scientific realist reflexive and dialectic It illustrates the uses of visual technology in the form of digital film and photographs and how as a source of data it has potential in developing ethnographic knowledge and representation in a range of educational contexts The ideas are illustrated through three research projects in the context of classrooms home environments and intervention work with practitioners With clear practical applications this resource considers the part theory plays in research designs which use visual technology to investigate educational problems Using Visual Technology in Educational Ethnography is ideal reading for anyone seeking to learn more about the benefits and practicalities of using visual technology within their ethnographic practice A Dubious Science Elizabeth M. Sage,2009 A

Dubious Science tells the story of nineteenth century French political economy an academic discipline that aspired to the status and authority of a hard science alongside such disciplines as physics and chemistry It chronicles political economists encounter with the social question all those unexpected social consequences of nineteenth century industrialization which offered concrete evidence that industrial capitalism showed few signs of guaranteeing happiness and economic success to all productive members of society The social question forced economists to admit that their theoretical assumptions were not working in practice the way they were supposed to in theory and to confront the possibility that their science might be less certain than they had believed This book explores the relationship between the unexpected socio economic realities of an industrializing society and the disciplinary formation and self protection of an aspiring human science and it links political economy s aspirations to governmentality that peculiarly modern type of power explored by Michel Foucault Like other dubious human sciences during the nineteenth century French political economy was embroiled in a network of interventionist strategies administered both from inside and outside the state designed to produce docile bodies obedient souls and a content and productive population A Dubious Science should prove valuable in courses on economic thought and its history the history of the human sciences the history and sociology of the professions as well as the broader history of European industrialization and its consequences

Antarctica, Art and Archive Polly Gould, 2020-12-10 Antarctica that icy wasteland and extreme environment at the ends of the earth was at the beginning of the 20th century the last frontier of Victorian imperialism a territory subjected to heroic and sometimes desperate exploration Now at the start of the 21st century Antarctica is the vulnerable landscape behind iconic images of climate change In this genre crossing narrative Gould takes us on a journey to the South Pole through art and archive Through the life and tragic death of Edward Wilson polar explorer doctor scientist and artist and his watercolours and through the work of a pioneer of modern anthropology and opponent of scientific racism Franz Boas Gould exposes the legacies of colonialism and racial and gendered identities of the time Antarctica the White Continent far from being a blank and white canvas is revealed to be full of colour Gould argues that the medium matters and that the practices of observation in art anthropology and science determine how we see and what we know Stories of exploration and open air watercolour painting of weather experiments and ethnographic collecting of evolution and extinction are interwoven to raise important questions for our times Revisiting Antarctica through the archive becomes the urgent endeavour to imagine an inhabitable planetary future

Between Worlds Lindsey Büster, Eugène Warmenbol, Dimitrij Mlekuž, 2018-12-18 The recent resurgence of academic interest in caves has demonstrated the central roles they played as arenas for ritual ceremony and performance and their importance within later prehistoric cosmologies Caves represent very particular types of archaeological site and require novel approaches to their recording interpretation and presentation This is especially true in understanding the ritual use of caves when the less tangible aspects of these environments would have been fundamental to the practices taking place within them Between

Worlds explores new theoretical frameworks that examine the agency of these enduring natural places and the complex interplay between environment taphonomy and human activity It also showcases the application of innovative technologies such as 3D laser scanning and acoustic modelling which provide new and exciting ways of capturing the experiential qualities of these enigmatic sites Together these developments offer more nuanced understandings of the role of caves in prehistoric ritual and allow for more effective communication management and presentation of cave archaeology to a wide range of audiences

Anthropology and Nursing Pat Holden, Jenny Littlewood, 2015-07-03 Nursing has been described as the most natural female occupation of all embodying the so called feminine ideals of tenderness and caring Yet these ideals are juxtaposed with images of nurses as sex objects or as ruthlessly efficient haridans How have these very different images been constructed And how do they relate to the reality of nursing the close contact with blood urine and faeces and the involvement with the rites of birth illness and death This book first published in 1991 explores the alternative ways different societies have developed to reconcile these contradictions Using contemporary historical and cross cultural case material the contributors trace the historical development of the role and investigate the expected qualities of nurses within different cultural settings such as India Uganda and Japan They look closely at the nurse as a social construct and demonstrate how the stereotypes relate to a particular society's notions of gender Designed primarily for anthropologists and sociologists interested in health illness and systems of health care this book challenges some of the myths of traditional nursing studies and provides an original perspective on doctor nurse patient relationships
