

1. The Nature of Family Law

1.1. The concept of family law:

Different Family Structures:

- Law acts to ensure that people in family relationships are financially secure
- Children of that relationship are cared for
- Relationships reflect a greater diversity in domestic relationships due to society changing
- Different family structures include:
 - Marriage & ATSI customary marriages
 - De facto relationships and same sex
 - Single and blended
 - Polygamous
- The law has extended attempting to protect all members of the family

Sources of Family Law: Commonwealth:

- Under the constitution s51 (xxi) the fed govt has the power and authority to make laws governing marriage and divorce
- The commonwealth has brought around legislations such as:
 - The marriage act 1961 (Cth)
 - The Family Law Act 1975 (Cth)
- The main aim of the family law act was to reform the law governing dissolution of marriage

State government:

- In the past only state parliaments could pass legislation about de facto's
- However most powers belongs to commonwealth (such as parenting and property disputes- whether de facto's or married)
 - Family Law amendment act 2008 (Cth), allowed commonwealth the ability to manage issues regarding property division- now Family Law Act 1975 (Cth).
- Family law is about protecting the rights of family and ensuring individuals meet their family obligations- also family relationships
- Main aim is reconciliation + compliance

1.2. The legal requirements of marriage:

- Marriage is a legal institution
- Marriage act 1961(Cth) – established legal requirements for a valid marriage
- Family Law act 1975 (Cth) established legal duties and obligations
 - Hyde V Hyde and Woodmansee established definition:
 - "... voluntary union for life of one man and one woman, to the exclusion of all others."

Family Communication about Genetics Clara L. Gaff, Carma L. Bylund, 2010 Genetics is in all senses a family affair The diagnosis of a genetic condition affects not only the patient and biological family members who may themselves be at risk but also family more generally as support may be sought from those considered kin and who may or may not be at risk themselves It is considered best practice in genetic consultations to explore who will be informed within the family when a genetic condition or risk is diagnosed particularly when the health of other family members is at risk There is little guidance or consensus on how to achieve the implicit goal of informed family members while respecting patient confidentiality however There is a need for practitioners to be aware of the dynamics of family communication and to have guidance about how they may sensitively facilitate communication about genetics within families This handbook facilitates the development of clinical practices relating to family communication about genetics Relevant theories of family communication are summarized and related to a clinical genetics milieu and from this frameworks for practitioners are presented A book of this nature is particularly timely as the completion of the Human Genome Project will result in an unprecedented amount of information about genetic constitution and health risks becoming available to individuals and their families The presence of a potentially genetic condition in a family is not a new phenomenon However the growth in testing for genetic conditions common complex conditions and variants that may influence health as well as drug metabolism means that a greater number of individuals will face decisions about communicating this information to their relatives Many health professionals in all levels of health care will be confronted with issues of responsibility and practice in family communication about genetic information as they become providers of this testing Excel HSC Legal Studies Belinda Brassil,2004
