Ciccarelli,2021-05-04 This book offers a critical account of Karl Marx s dazzling theory of labour power which is also one of the most influential concepts in the history of contemporary philosophy Labour power is the dark side of the digital revolution Working men and women are invisible and treated like human service flesh and blood automatons or organic extensions of a machine that produces data on its own Automation is viewed as something magic made possible by algorithms whose life is independent of human beings Labour power however has not disappeared Without drivers Uber cannot connect customers on its platform without searches on its browser Google grinds to a halt without us Facebook or Instagram is desert Labour power is the dwarf hidden inside the puppet of technology that allows algorithms to be intelligent and make the biggest profits in the history of capitalism The invisible centrality of labour power is the political enigma of our times Today a new account of the theory of labour power is needed more than ever in order to understand the political economy of digital capitalism on new grounds Unlike a long tradition in the history of work labour power is not only the work or the data it produces but a potency that does not coincide with its current commodification The actuality of labour power does not exhaust the virtuality that can be actualised by its faculty Even when reduced to a commodity labour power does not exhaust the potency of its being otherwise Immersed in the constant propaganda that boosts the latest technological inventions we neglect the fact that this wealth is produced by us and that it could be ours precisely because it is a part of our potential to be other than what we are at present This book is a vibrant invitation to consider the fact that we are always connected with the potency that is constantly at work in our life If this were not the case we would not be alive If we do not strive to become consciously and collectively active we will never know

Time and the Rhythms of Emancipatory Education Michel Alhadeff-Jones,2016-10-26 Time and the Rhythms of Emancipatory Education argues that by rethinking the way we relate to time we can fundamentally rethink the way we conceive education Beyond the contemporary rhetoric of acceleration speed urgency or slowness this book provides an epistemological historical and theoretical framework that will serve as a comprehensive resource for critical reflection on the relationship between the experience of time and emancipatory education Drawing upon time and rhythm studies complexity theories and educational research Alhadeff Jones reflects upon the temporal and rhythmic dimensions of education in order to re theorize and address current societal and educational challenges The book is divided into three parts The first begins by discussing the specificities inherent to the study of time in educational sciences The second contextualizes the evolution of temporal constraints that determine the ways education is institutionalized organized and experienced The third and final part questions the meanings of emancipatory education in a context of temporal alienation This is the first book to provide a broad overview of European and North American theories that inform both the ideas of time and rhythm in educational sciences from school instruction curriculum design and arts education to vocational training lifelong learning and educational policies It will be of key interest to academics researchers and postgraduate students in the fields of philosophy of education sociology of education history of education psychology curriculum and learning theory and adult education The Open Access version of this book available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 4.0 license
