

Operating the water heater.

Water Temperature Setting...

Maximum water temperatures occur just after the burner has shut off. To determine the water temperature, turn on a hot water faucet and place a thermometer in the water stream.

The reference mark "Low" represents an approximate water temperature of 91°F.

The reference mark "Hot" represents an approximate water temperature of 125°F.

The reference mark "A" represents an approximate water temperature of 130°F.

The reference mark "B" represents an approximate water temperature of 140°F.

The reference mark "C" represents an approximate water temperature of 150°F.

The reference mark "Very Hot" represents an approximate water temperature of 155°F.

A condition known as "stacking" or "layering" can occur when a series of short and frequent hot water draws are taken.

The hottest temperature water will be at the top of the tank, closest to the outlet pipe delivering hot water to the home.

Stacking can cause this top layer of water to be hotter than the water toward the bottom of the tank near the Combination Gas Control (Thermostat).

Therefore, always remember to test the water temperature with your hand before use and remember that hotter water increases the risk of scald injury.

Also, always supervise young children or others who are incapacitated.

The Combination Gas Control (Thermostat) is constructed with a built in safety shut-off device designed to shut off the gas supply to the burner if the pilot flame is extinguished for any reason.

The Combination Gas Control (Thermostat) is also equipped with a single use gas shut off device that will shut off the gas supply to the burner if the water heater exceeds normal operating temperatures. Refer to the (Before You Call For Service) section of this manual, or contact your dealer.

▲ WARNING: Should overheating occur or the gas supply fail to shut off, turn off the manual gas control valve to the appliance.

If the water heater has been subjected to fire, flood or physical damage, turn off the manual gas (shut-off) valve, and do not operate the water heater again until it has been checked by a qualified service technician.

NOTICE: DO NOT use this appliance if any part has been under water. Immediately call a qualified installer or service agency to replace a flooded water heater. DO NOT attempt to repair the unit! It must be replaced.
