

While recognizing and against the process, such as the fact that the process and the way it is done is not perfect, it is important to have a clear understanding of the process and the way it is done.

The universal concept of Justice and Mercy is now brought down to us by a play written thousands of years ago as shown in this paper, which has been written four hundred years after Shakespeare's The Tempest, and seven hundred years after Dante's Inferno. Prospero has undoubtedly committed the great sin of Wrath, by use of magic, he altered the natural path of destiny and, for this sin, was condemned to the eighth level of hell as Dante envisioned it in his writing of Inferno. This leaves one to wonder: did Prospero know of God and Christ, of how his actions were sins against them? Or was Prospero much like the thief on the cross next to Jesus, completely unaware of the Christian concept of God? Would such knowledge have altered Prospero's course? In what way? If only Shakespeare were alive to tell us.
