

occupational therapists are awarded the 'Occupational Therapists Registered' (OTR), however specific licensing vary from one state to another for example some states consider an education practice certification, education related classes or the early intervention certification. In addition, one should have completed supervised field work (Wilcock & Townsend, 2009).

Occupational therapists work in large rehabilitation centers, educational institutions, nursing care facilities, home health care services, government agencies, and community care facilities, hospitals, employed in private practice and in ambulance services. Occupation therapy works alongside the field of medicine, sociology, anthropology, law and psychology and any other discipline that contributes to developing its knowledge base. In this case these profession work along with doctors, nurses, counselors, psychologists, social workers, public health officers, medical scientists, family members among other key players in improving the patients life.

On average it costs $45,000 to complete the training, given that occupational therapists are becoming more popular in almost all health institutions, undertaking the course will be very beneficial both in the long run and short run. For instance, in 2008, there were 104,500 Occupational therapist in the US alone.

2. Legal Issues

The general Federal laws on the practice of occupational therapy are I regard to certification and licensing. States have laws that slightly differ from one state to another, for example South Carolina's statutes on this practice are found in Title 40, for Professions and Occupations Sec 40. In Ontario, the statutes based on this profession are were constituted through the occupational Therapy Act 1991. There are the standard general laws that should be adhered to in practicing occupational therapy, the first standard is professional standing and
