Plato Robin Barrow,2014-10-23 Plato was the first and most formidable thinker to recognise that education is a fiercely contested concept and to point out what great social and personal issues are at stake in education He articulated a compelling argument for a liberal arts education as something peculiarly befitting free and autonomous beings He understood the centrality of education for human well being and flourishing And he was the first to set forth a systematic theory of education In this text Robin Barrow concisely and convincingly establishes the continuing relevance of Plato s views to debates on such issues as nature vs nurture or genetic inheritance vs social background philosophy vs sophistry or the pursuit of true understanding vs the pursuit of reputation or perhaps simply truth vs politics and the media Questions concerning the fair distribution of education moral education value judgments and human nature are explored along with themes more specifically associated with Plato s philosophy such as the Theory of Ideas The whole is embedded in a clearly presented account of the historical background to Plato s thought

Self-Cultivation in Chinese and Greco-Roman Philosophy David Machek,2025-05-15 In early China and ancient Greece self cultivation was considered crucial for leading a flourishing fulfilled life In this cross cultural study David Machek presents and interprets six influential Greek and Chinese self cultivation theories advocated by Mengzi Zhuangzi and Xunzi as well as Plato Aristotle and the Stoics in order to put forward the overarching narrative that self cultivation amounts to strengthening the best part of the human self the heart in the Chinese context and the mind in the Greek context Advancing new readings of classic texts Machek shows that Greek approaches to self cultivation privilege intellectual pursuits while Chinese approaches give more weight to non intellectual activities such as learning manual crafts and performing rituals He also demonstrates how both ancient traditions understand the self as a heterogeneous community of organic entities each needing different provisions to flourish which aligns the ancient Greek view closer to the early Chinese view As such this book reinforces the underlying structural and conceptual similarities between the two traditions and makes an important contribution to diversifying philosophical conversations

Confucius Charlene Tan, 2014-10-23 Charlene Tan's text offers a coherent account of Confucius' educational thought and its implications for the modern world. Arguing that Confucius is more than an ancient master who emphasised tradition, rote learning and teacher-centredness, Tan portrays Confucius as a progressive educator who challenged the social norms of his time and transformed the nature of teaching and learning in China and beyond. Through a textual study of the Analects, this text provides a critical exposition of Confucius' work, particularly with respect to his interpretations of human beings' mission in life, potentials, relationships with one another and educational process. John Dewey Richard Pring,2014-10-23 Bertrand Russell s History of Philosophy refers to Dewey as generally admitted to be the leading living philosopher of America This honourable mention lay partly in his pragmatic theory of meaning through which so many baffling philosophical problems were claimed to have been solved as well as educational ones It is in connection with his educational ideas however that Dewey became either famous or infamous In the United States he had been seen both as saviour of American education by those who welcomed a more child centred curriculum and yet as worse than Hitler by those who saw his ideas as undermining traditional education an accusation shared by his detractors in Britain This account seeks to bring together Dewey s educational thinking and its frequently forgotten foundations in a pragmatic theory of meaning In so doing the book seeks to show that John Dewey is a philosopher of education for our time
