President's Tax Relief Proposals United States. Congress. House. Committee on Ways and Means,2001 IJER Vol 2-N1 International Journal of Educational Reform,1993-01-01 The mission of the International Journal of Educational Reform

IJER is to keep readers up to date with worldwide developments in education reform by providing scholarly information and practical analysis from recognized international authorities. As the only peer reviewed scholarly publication that combines authors' voices without regard for the political affiliations, perspectives or research methodologies, IJER provides readers with a balanced view of all sides of the political and educational mainstream. To this end, IJER includes but is not limited to inquiry based and opinion pieces on developments in such areas as policy administration, curriculum, instruction, law and research. IJER should thus be of interest to professional educators with decision making roles and policymakers at all levels, since it provides a broad based conversation between and among policymakers, practitioners and academicians about reform goals, objectives and methods for success throughout the world. Readers can call on IJER to learn from an international group of reform implementers by discovering what they can do that has actually worked. IJER can also help readers to understand the pitfalls of current reforms in order to avoid making similar mistakes. Finally, it is the mission of IJER to help readers to learn about key issues in school reform from movers and shakers who help to study and shape the power base directing educational reform in the U.S. and the world. Mayor and Superintendent Partnerships in Education, United States.

Congress. House. Committee on Education and Labor, 2008. The New Political Economy of Urban Education, Pauline Lipman, 2013-05-13. Urban education and its contexts have changed in powerful ways. Old paradigms are being eclipsed by global forces of privatization and markets and new articulations of race, class and urban space. These factors and more set the stage for Pauline Lipman's insightful analysis of the relationship between education policy and the neoliberal economic, political and ideological processes that are reshaping cities in the United States and around the globe. Using Chicago as a case study of the interconnectedness of neoliberal urban policies on housing, economic development, race and education, Lipman explores larger implications for equity, justice and the right to the city. She draws on scholarship in critical geography, urban sociology and anthropology, education policy and critical analyses of race. Her synthesis of these lenses gives added weight to her critical appraisal and hope for the future, offering a significant contribution to current arguments about urban schooling and how we think about relations between neoliberal education reforms and the transformation of cities. By examining the cultural politics of why and how these relationships resonate with people's lived experience, Lipman pushes the analysis one step further toward a new educational and social paradigm rooted in radical political and economic democracy.

Affirming Students' Right to Their Own Language, Jerrie Cobb, Scott, Dolores Y. Straker, Laurie Katz, 2009-06-02. A Co publication of the National Council of Teachers of English and Routledge. This landmark volume responds to the call to attend to the unfinished pedagogical business of the NCTE Conference on College Composition and Communication 1974 Students' Right to Their Own Language resolution. Chronicling the interplay between legislated, litigated education policies and language and literacy teaching in diverse classrooms, it presents exemplary research based practices that maximize students' learning by utilizing their home based cultural language and literacy practices to help them meet school expectations.
