Reel History Alex von Tunzelmann, 2015-10-01 Reel History is a hoot Alex von Tunzelmann writes with a blend of playful wit and delicious snark Greg Jenner From ancient Egypt to the Tudors to the Nazis the film industry has often defined how we think of the past But how much of what you see on the screen is true And does it really matter if filmmakers just make it all up Picking her way through Hollywood's version of events acclaimed historian Alex von Tunzelmann sorts the fact from the fiction Along the way we meet all our favourite historical characters on screen and in real life from Cleopatra to Elizabeth I from Spartacus to Abraham Lincoln and from Attila the Hun to Nelson Mandela Based on the long running column in the Guardian Reel History takes a comic look at the history of the world as told through the movies the good the bad and the very ugly

The Fighting Sullivans Bruce Kuklick, 2016-11-07 In November of 1942 the five Sullivan brothers from Waterloo Iowa were killed when a Japanese torpedo sank their ship during the most ferocious naval engagement fought in the South Pacific The family's loss the most extraordinary for the United States in its military history was immortalized and valorized in the 1944 film The Fighting Sullivans This book tells the story of how calamity with the help of Hollywood and the wartime publicity machine transformed a family of marginal and disreputable young men intensely disliked in their hometown into heroes The Sullivan boys joined the armed forces after Pearl Harbor and the US Navy accepted that they would all serve on one ship the light cruiser USS Juneau The five brothers gave the navy great publicity but when the ship went down and survivors were not rescued the service faced a serious problem The Fighting Sullivans examines the campaign that followed as the navy and its partners in Hollywood turned a tragedy of errors into a public relations victory Bruce Kuklick shows how the myth of the Sullivan family was created using bits and pieces of real events but with twists that turned the boys into superhumans and their beleaguered parents into self sacrificing patriots He explores the close relationship between Hollywood studios and the military which aimed to boost morale and support for the war A study in mythmaking The Fighting Sullivans offers a behind the scenes look at the manufacture of heroes in twentieth century wartime America vehicle of self validation and of democratic ideals The World According to Hollywood, 1918-1939 Ruth Vasey, 1997 The most visible cultural institution on earth between the World Wars the Hollywood movie industry tried to satisfy worldwide audiences of vastly different cultural religious and political persuasions The World According to Hollywood shows how the industry's self regulation shaped the content of films to make them salable in as many markets as possible In the process Hollywood created an idiosyncratic vision of the world that was glamorous and exotic but also oddly narrow Ruth Vasey shows how the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America (MPPDA) by implementing such strategies as the industry's Production Code ensured that domestic and foreign distribution took place with a minimum of censorship or consumer resistance Drawing upon MPPDA archives studio records trade papers and the records of the U S Department of Commerce Vasey reveals the ways the MPPDA influenced the representation of sex violence religion foreign and domestic politics corporate capitalism ethnic minorities and the conduct of professional classes Vasey is the first scholar to document fully how the demands of the global market frequently dictated film content and created the movies homogenized picture of social and racial characteristics in both urban America and the world beyond She uncovers telling evidence of scripts and treatments that were abandoned before or during the course of production because of content that might offend foreign markets Among the fascinating points she discusses is Hollywood's frequent use of imaginary countries as story locales resulting from a deliberate business policy of avoiding realistic depictions of actual countries She argues that foreign governments perceived movies not just as articles of trade but as potential commercial and political emissaries of the United States Just as Hollywood had to persuade its domestic audiences that its products were morally sound its domination of world markets depended on its ability to create a culturally and politically acceptable product Historians in Public Ian Tyrrell, 2005-12 From lagging book sales and shrinking job prospects to concerns over the discipline's narrowness myriad factors have been cited by historians as evidence that their profession is in decline in America Ian Tyrrell's Historians in Public shows that this perceived threat to history is recurrent exaggerated and often misunderstood In fact history has adapted to and influenced the American public more than people and often historians realize Tyrrell's elegant history of the practice of American history traces debates beginning shortly after the profession's emergence in American academia about history's role in school curricula He also examines the use of historians in and by the government and whether historians should utilize mass media such as film and radio to influence the general public As Historians in Public shows the utility of history is a distinctive theme throughout the history of the discipline as is the attempt to be responsive to public issues among pressure groups A superb examination of the practice of American history since the turn of the century Historians in Public uncovers the often tangled ways history makers make history both as artisans and as actors Toward the Visualization of History Mark Moss, 2008-06-19 Over the past 50 years the influence of visuals has impacted society with greater frequency No subject is immune from the power of visual culture and this fact becomes especially pronounced with regards to history and historical discourse Where once the study of the past was books and printed articles the environment has changed and students now enter the lecture hall with a sense of history that has been gleaned from television film photography and other new media They come to understand history based on what they have seen and heard not what they have read What are the implications of this process this visualization of history Mark Moss discusses the impact of visuals on the study of history with an examination of visual culture and the future of print Recognizing the visual bias of the younger generations and using this as a starting point for teaching history is a critical component for reaching students By providing an analysis of photography film television and computer culture Moss uses the Holocaust as an historical case study to illustrate the ways in which visual culture can be used to bring about an awareness of history as well as the potential for visual culture becoming a driving force for social and cultural change Classical Hollywood Film Cycles Zoe

Davis,2011-03-04 People have been experimenting with different ways to write history for 2 500 years yet we have experimented with film in the same way for only a century Noted professor and historian Natalie Zemon Davis consultant for the film The Return of Martin Guerre argues that movies can do much more than recreate exciting events and the external look of the past in costumes and sets Film can show millions of viewers the sentiments experiences and practices of a group a period and a place it can suggest the hidden processes and conflicts of political and family life And film has the potential to show the past accurately wedding the concerns of the historian and the filmmaker To explore the achievements and flaws of historical films in differing traditions Davis uses two themes slavery and women in political power She shows how slave resistance and the memory of slavery are represented through such films as Stanley Kubrick s Spartacus Steven Spielberg s Amistad and Jonathan Demme s Beloved Then she considers the portrayal of queens from John Ford s Mary of Scotland and Shekhar Kapur s Elizabeth to John Madden s Mrs Brown and compares them with the cinematic treatments of Eva Peron and Golda Meir This visionary book encourages readers to consider history films both appreciatively and critically while calling historians and filmmakers to a new collaboration
