Artist's Companion How to Define and Develop Your Practice is a how to reference for veteran and beginning teaching artists alike. Artist educator Daniel Levy has been working in classrooms, homeless shelters, and correctional facilities for over thirty years. With humor and hard won insight, Levy and a variety of contributing teaching artists narrate their successes and failures while focusing on the practical mechanics of working within conditions of limited time and resources. Levy organizes teaching artist practice within a framework of View, Design, and Respond. View is everything you value and believe about teaching and learning. Design is what you plan before you go into a classroom. Respond is how you react to and support your students face to face. With the aid of checklists, worksheets, and primary sources, A Teaching Artist's Companion invites you to define your own unique view and guides your observing, critiquing, and shaping your practice over time. The Course

Reflection Project Nicole Schonemann, Emily Metzgar, Andrew Libby, 2015-05-01 Service learning is entering a post initiatory phase. At tertiary institutions of all types and sizes, service learning programs are common and service learning requirements for graduation are growing in popularity. Taken together alongside continued faculty interest in effective teaching, these factors have raised the visibility and popularity of service learning. Now the greater need in service learning is not to prove the need for or efficacy of service learning but to turn the focus squarely back on practice. Following established best practice is not enough; instructors also need to reflect on how this fits within the specific context and application of each unique course and service learning partnership. While there are many excellent resources that detail best practice and showcase exemplary service learning courses, faculty reflection and course revision often goes unmentioned. In response to the lack of attention on the role of reflection and course revision, we convened groups of faculty from a variety of disciplines to reflect deeply on their courses, paying specific attention to obstacles and challenges. These conversations were converted to articles for this edited collection, each chapter representing the process of reflection and revision and serving as a guide to develop effective practice in varied curricular contexts. This text contributes to the body of literature on service learning in a unique and practical manner. Faculty teaching or interested in teaching service learning classes would benefit from this text as well as university administrators and community service directors involved in service learning at a programmatic and institutional level. This book should be marketed to faculty teaching disciplinary service learning classes and service learning pedagogy classes and administrative offices involved in service learning. This could be a supplementary text for graduate level pedagogy courses. Higher education institutional libraries would benefit from this text as well as the national and state campus compact offices.
