Fighting at the Legal Boundaries Kenneth Watkin OMM, CD, QC,2016-05-03 Fighting at the Legal Boundaries offers a holistic approach towards the application of the various constitutive parts of international law The author focuses on the interaction between the applicable bodies of law by exploring whether their boundaries are improperly drawn or are being interpreted in too rigid a fashion Emphasis is placed on the disconnect that can occur between theory and practice regarding how these legal regimes are applied and interact with one another Through a number of case studies Fighting at the Legal Boundaries explores how the threat posed by insurgents terrorists and transnational criminal gangs often occurs not only at the point where these bodies of law interact but also in situations where there is significant overlap In this regard the exercise of the longstanding right of States to defend nationals including the conduct of operations such as hostage rescue can involve the application of human rights based law enforcement norms to counter threats transcending the conflict spectrum

A Stratigraphical Basis for the Anthropocene C.N. Waters, J.A. Zalasiewicz, M. Williams, M.A. Ellis, A.M. Snelling, 2014-06-05 Humankind has pervasively influenced the Earth's atmosphere biosphere geosphere hydrosphere and cryosphere arguably to the point of fashioning a new geological epoch the Anthropocene To constrain the Anthropocene as a potential formal unit within the Geological Time Scale a spectrum of indicators of anthropogenically

induced environmental change is considered and shown as stratigraphical signals that may be used to characterize an Anthropocene unit and to recognize its base This volume describes a range of evidence that may help to define this potential new time unit and details key signatures that could be used in its definition These signatures include lithostratigraphical novel deposits minerals and mineral magnetism biostratigraphical macro and micro palaeontological successions and human induced trace fossils and chemostratigraphical organic inorganic and radiogenic signatures in deposits speleothems and ice and volcanic eruptions We include finally the suggestion that humans have created a further sphere the technosphere that drives global change

Mapping Spatial Relations, Their Perceptions and Dynamics Susanne Rau, Ekkehard Schönherr, 2013-12-13 This book is the product of an eponymous workshop which took place in Erfurt in May 2012 and which has since then been supplemented with four further contributions The topics focus on the potential mapping of perceived urban space and spatial hierarchies as a consequence of social usage undertaken by a variety of active participants together with spatio temporal changes as a result of factors such as demographic urban growth and decline Historians cartographers and geographers are brought together to present and discuss different models ideas and new methods of spatial analysis and modes of representing changes in perceptions The two main subjects are the epistemology of spatial change and the question of historical media and adequate presentation This work represents a first step toward the development of a new model for mapping urban changes and spatial relations concerning the past present and future

Ice Ages, Climate Dynamics and Biotic Events: The Late Pennsylvanian World S.G. Lucas, W.A. DiMichele, S. Opluštil, X. Wang, 2023-06-19 The Late Pennsylvanian was a time of ice ages and associated climate dynamics A major reduction in Gondwana ice volume was followed by a prolonged period of relative global warmth culminating in the last great ice age of the late Paleozoic It also was a major turning point in the evolution of life on land when the coal forests of the Middle Pennsylvanian gave way to new kinds of Late Pennsylvanian wetland vegetation and new kinds of animals appeared Changes in the terrestrial biota began during the Middle Pennsylvanian accelerating and proceeding in a spatially complex manner throughout the Late Pennsylvanian The Late Pennsylvanian is thus a laboratory for studying environmental changes in a glacial world and for assessing coeval biotic changes in part to establish the possible links between the two No book has been dedicated to this time interval so this volume fills a gap in our understanding of a dynamic Late Pennsylvanian world that is much like the late Cenozoic world

Lawyers in 21st-Century Societies Richard L Abel, Hilary Sommerlad, Ole Hammerslev, Ulrike Schultz, 2022-05-05 This book presents an invaluable collection of essays by eminent scholars from a wide variety of disciplines on the main issues currently confronting legal professions across the world It does this through a comparative analysis of the data provided by the reports on 46 countries in its companion volume Lawyers in 21st Century Societies Vol 1 National Reports Hart 2020 Together these volumes build on the seminal collection Lawyers in Society Abel and Lewis 1988a 1988b 1989 The period since 1988 has seen an acceleration and intensification of the global socio economic cultural and political developments that in the 1980s were challenging traditional professional forms Together with the striking transformation of the world order as a result of the fall of the Soviet bloc neo liberalism globalisation the financialisation of capitalism technological innovations and the changing demography of lawyers these developments underscored the need for a new comparative exploration of the legal professional field This volume deepens the insights in volume 1 with chapters on legal professions in Africa Latin America the Islamic world emerging economies and former communist regimes It also addresses theoretical questions including the sociology of lawyers and other professions medicine accountancy state production the rule of law regional bodies large law firms access to justice technology casualisation cause lawyering diversity gender race and masculinity corruption ethics regulation and legal education Together with volume 1 it will inform and challenge conceptions of the contemporary profession and stimulate and support further research

Ecological Entanglements in the Anthropocene Nicholas Holm, Sy Taffel, 2016-12-21 This edited collection explores the relationships between humans and nature at a time when the traditional sense of separation between human cultures and a natural wilderness is being eroded The Anthropocene whose literal translation is the Age of Man is one way of marking these planetary changes to the Earth system Global climate change and rising sea levels are two prominent examples of how nature can no longer be simply thought of as something outside and removed from humans and vice versa This collection applies the concepts of ecology and entanglement to address pressing political social and cultural issues surrounding human relationships with the nonhuman world in terms of working with nature It asks are there more or less preferable ways of working with nature What forms and practices might this work take and how do we distinguish between them Is the idea of nature even sufficient to approach such questions or do we need to reconsider using the term nature in favour of terms such as environments ecologies or the broad notion of the non human world How might we forge perspectives and enact practices which build resilience and community across species and spaces constructing relationships with nonhumans which go beyond discourses of pollution degradation and destruction Bringing together a range of contributors from across multiple academic disciplines activists and artists this book examines how these questions might help us understand and assess the different ways in which humans transform engage and interact with the nonhuman world
