The Five-Factor Model of Personality Across Cultures Robert R. McCrae, Juri Allik, 2012-12-06 ROBERT R MCCRAE
it is simply personality research conducted in different countries The implicit assumption behind this practice is that personality processes are universal and where they are studied is thus of no consequence An insensitivity to cultural context once imputed mostly to Americans now appears to characterize the field worldwide Fortunately recent years have also seen a rise of interest in studies of personality and culture Church 2001 Church Lee McCauley McCrae 2000 What do these new studies show Are personality processes indeed universal or are there significant variations across cultures that necessitate a more nuanced approach to research There is as yet no definitive answer to that question In some respects human personality does seem to transcend the boundaries of language and culture in other respects it is profoundly influenced by social and historical forces Sorting these issues out must be a priority for our field if we are to understand the current personality literature approaches to language science Performative Inter-Actions in African Theatre 2 Kene Igweonu, Osita Okagbue, 2014-04-11

This book is part of a three volume book set published under the general title of Performative Inter Actions in African Theatre. Each of the three books in the set has a unique subtitle that works to better focus its content and differentiates it from the other two volumes. The contributors' backgrounds and global spread adequately reflect the international focus of the three books that make up the collection. The contributions in their various ways demonstrate the many advances and ingenious solutions adopted by African theatre practitioners in tackling some of the challenges arising from the adverse colonial experience as well as the one sided advance of globalisation. The contributions attest to the thriving nature of African theatre and performance which in the face of these challenges has managed to retain its distinctiveness while at the same time acknowledging, contesting and appropriating influences from elsewhere into an aesthetic that is identifiably African. Consequently the three books are presented as a comprehensive exploration of the current state of African theatre and performance both on the continent and diaspora.

Performative Inter Actions in African Theatre 2: Innovation, Creativity and Social Change contains essays that address performativity as a process particularly in the context of theatre's engagement with contemporary realities with the hope of instigating social change. The innovativeness of the examples explored within the book points to the ingenuity and adaptive capacity of African theatre in ways that engage indigenous forms in the service of contemporary realities. Contributions in Innovation, Creativity and Social Change explore forms such as Theatre for Development, community and applied theatre and indigenous juridical performances as well as the work of contemporary dramatists and performers who set out to instigate change in society.

Ubuntu, Migration and Ministry Elina Hankela, 2014-05-28

Ubuntu: Migration and Ministry invites the reader to rethink ubuntu. Nguni humanness, humanity as a moral notion in the context of local communities. The socio-moral patterns that emerge at the crossroads between ethnography and social ethics offer a fresh perspective to what it means to be human in contemporary Johannesburg. The Central Methodist Mission is known for sheltering thousands of migrants and homeless people in the inner city. Based on ethnographic fieldwork primarily conducted in 2009, Elina Hankela unpacks the church leader's liberationist vision of humanity and analyses the tension between the congregation and the migrants linked to the refugee ministry. While relational virtues mark the community's moral code, various regulating rules and structures shape the actual relationships at the church. Here ubuntu challenges and is challenged. Winner of the 2014 Donner Institute Prize for Outstanding Research into Religion.

Counseling and Pastoral Care in African and Other Cross-Cultural Contexts Tapiwa N. Mucherera, 2017-11-03

The coming of Colonization and Christianity to Africa and other indigenous cross-cultural contexts was a mixed bag of pros and cons. The impact of the advent of the two has had a lasting effect being felt even today. It created issues of bi-culturalism and bi-religiousness in personal and religious identities that counselors and the church need to address when working with people from these contexts. There is the existence of deep cultural trauma including psychological and spiritual scars needing healing for those living in most of these post colonial contexts The Western counseling approaches and Christian rituals need contextualization A counselor or pastoral caregiver with an integrative consciousness is required to address the psychological and religious identity conflicts existing in African and other indigenous cross cultural contexts

Experimental Phonetics Katrina Hayward,2014-07-10 Traditionally investigations into speech and pronunciation have relied on the unaided skills of the phonetician in recognising and reproducing speech sounds But many practitioners are now using instruments to gain a greater understanding of speech and to be able to analyse speech patterns in situations when speaking and hearing would otherwise be inaccessible without the use of these instruments This new book looks at how this form of investigation has developed and considers the types of data that can be used and which questions can be solved using experimental phonetics
