Moe, 2013-12-19 Zoopoetics assumes Aristotle was right The general origin of poetry resides in part in the instinct to imitate But it is an innovative imitation An exploration of the oeuvres of Walt Whitman E E Cummings W S Merwin and Brenda Hillman reveals the many places where an imitation of another species poiesis Greek makings contributes to breakthroughs in poetic form However humans are not the only imitators in the animal kingdom Other species too achieve breakthroughs in their makings through an attentiveness to the ways of being of other animals For this reason mimic octopi elephants beluga whales and many other species join the exploration of what zoopoetics encompasses Zoopoetics provides further traction for people interested in the possibilities when and where species meet Gestures are paramount to zoopoetics Through the interplay of gestures the human animal textual spheres merge making it possible to recognize how actual biological animals impact the material makings of poetry Moreover as many species are makers zoopoetics expands the poetic tradition to include nonhuman poiesis      Rhetorical Touch Shannon Walters, 2014-10-20 Rhetorical Touch argues for an understanding of touch as a rhetorical art by approaching the sense of touch through the kinds of bodies and minds that rhetorical history and theory have tended to exclude In resistance to a rhetorical tradition focused on shaping able bodies and neurotypical minds Shannon Walters explores how people with various disabilities psychological cognitive and physical employ touch to establish themselves as communicators and to connect with disabled and nondisabled audiences In doing so she argues for a theory of rhetoric that understands and values touch as rhetorical Essential to her argument is a redefinition of key concepts and terms the rhetorical situation rhetorical identification and the appeals of ethos character pathos emotion and logos logic or message By connecting Empedoclean and sophistic theories to Aristotelian rhetoric and Burkean approaches Walters s methods mobilize a wide range of key figures in rhetorical history and theory in response to the context of disability Using Empedocles tactile approach to logos Walters shows how the iterative writing processes of people with psychological disabilities shape crucial spaces for identification based on touch in online and real life spaces Mobilizing the touch based properties of the rhetorical practice of m tis Walters demonstrates how rhetors with autism approach the crafting of ethos in generative and embodied ways Rereading the rhetorical practice of kairos in relation to the proximity between bodies Walters demonstrates how writers with physical disabilities move beyond approaches of pathos based on pity and inspiration The volume also includes a classroom based exploration of the discourses and assumptions regarding bodies in relation to haptic or touch based technologies Because the sense of touch is the most persistent of the senses Walters argues that in contexts of disability and in situations in which people with and without disabilities interact touch can be a particularly vital instrument for creating meaning connection and partial identification She contends that a rhetoric thus reshaped stretches contemporary rhetoric and composition studies to respond to the contributions of disabled rhetors and transforms the traditional rhetorical appeals and canons Ultimately Walters argues a rhetoric of touch allows for a richer understanding of the communication processes of a wide range of rhetors who use embodied strategies

Stillion Southard, 2018-10-05 In How to Belong Belinda Stillion Southard examines how women leaders throughout the world have asserted their rhetorical agency in troubling economic social and political conditions Rather than utilizing the concept of citizenship to bolster political influence the women in the case studies presented here rely on the power of relationships to create a more habitable world With the rise of global capitalism many nation states that have profited from invigorated flows of capital have also responded to the threat of increased human mobility by heightening national citizenship's exclusionary power Through a series of case studies that include women grassroots protesters a woman president and a woman United Nations director Stillion Southard analyzes several examples of women all as embodied subjects in a particular transnational context pushing back against this often violent rise in nationalist rhetoric While scholars have typically used the concept of citizenship to explain what it means to belong Stillion

Southard instead shows how these women have reimagined belonging in ways that have enabled them to create national regional and global communities As part of a broader conversation centered on exposing the violence of national citizenship and proposing ways of rejecting that violence this book seeks to provide answers through the powerful rhetorical practices of resilient and inspiring women who have successfully negotiated what it means to belong to be included and to enact change beyond the boundaries of citizenship
