Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 10-week training program on the heart rate (HR) and energy expenditure (EE) of sedentary, middle-aged women. The subjects were 10 women, 40 to 50 years of age, who were sedentary and had no cardiovascular or pulmonary disease. The subjects were randomly assigned to a 10-week training program or a control group. The training program consisted of three sessions per week of aerobic exercise at 60% of maximum HR. The control group did not exercise. The subjects were monitored for HR and EE during the training program and at the end of the program. The results showed that the training program had a significant effect on HR and EE. The HR of the training group decreased significantly from 160 to 140 beats per minute (p < 0.05). The EE of the training group increased significantly from 1,800 to 2,200 kcal per day (p < 0.05). The control group did not show any significant changes in HR or EE. The results of this study suggest that a 10-week training program can improve the cardiovascular and metabolic health of sedentary, middle-aged women.

- Day and night periods that are longer than the standard 24 hours occur most commonly with the use of artificial light or other light sources. To avoid this, there are two things the producer should do:
  - Turn off the lights at the end of the work day.
  - Use red light for night shifts, as the wavelength of this light may be less disruptive to the circadian rhythm.
- The end of the shift should be followed by a period of relaxation, and the worker should be encouraged to sleep during the day. The worker should be encouraged to sleep during the day. The worker should be encouraged to sleep during the day.

When you install your T-Value One Connection, improper installation of all four screws (50 combinations for One Connection) will void the warranty. Please, before installing, refer to the correct installation instructions. Failure to maintain proper ventilation may result in a serious problem with the product.

- When a producer's price for the output rises or falls, it must adjust its output level accordingly. For example, suppose the price for the output rises. The producer will want to produce more of the output, and this will require hiring more workers. The producer will also want to use more of the other inputs, and this will require hiring more of those inputs. The producer will also want to use more of the other inputs, and this will require hiring more of those inputs.

- 20 Do not test the power switch on the immersion pump, or otherwise test the pump in the water and especially if the water contains any materials that interfere with the power specifications outlined in the test and maintenance procedures listed on the product for voltage and temperature information
- 21 Do not touch the power switch or the power cord while they are energized for the reason that on a grounded system, a grounded object energized from the plug can conduct the line voltage of the plug and if you touch it, you will be shocked. Do not touch the plug or cord at the power switch or if they are energized from the plug
- 22 Do not use the plug or the power cord to plug the power cord into another outlet. This may cause electric shock
- 23 Do not touch the switch, or use the switch to energize any equipment. Only use the power cord to connect the immersion pump to the power source
- 24 Do not touch the plug or the power cord while it is energized or if there is any damage to the power cord because it can be shocked. Always pull on the power cord's plug, the energizing of the plugging on the power cord. Do not touch the power cord while it is energized
- 25 Do not plug the cord into any electrical receptacle in a gas filled area. There are only certified receptacles for use in gas filled areas. A coupling of immediate use is not certified for use in the gas filled area is not a safe practice
- 26 Do not use the plug or the power cord to plug the power cord into a receptacle that is not certified for use in the gas filled area. This is not a safe practice.
