

termed as being unnatural and a person who portrays masculinity. This is because she is not soft hearted like Macbeth himself. She is heartless and self centered and driven by worldly things. She is portrayed as a person who can do anything for attainment of personal gains.

In Lady Macbeth's mind, she thinks that being a woman has prevented her from carrying out heartless activities such as murder. She for instance wishes that the spines change her breast milk into poison. This is because she believes that having reproductive parts prevents interfering with the evil plans that are aimed at benefiting her husband. In her actions and thoughts, she portrays men and masculinity as cruelty and heartlessness. On the other hand, according to her femininity is associated with compassion and kindness together with sympathy. Through her act, she revives Macbeth's masculinity that makes him commit murder by killing Duncan (Shakespeare, 2012).

Her husband proposes to kill Duncan so that he would become king but was reluctant on the issue. Lady Macbeth agrees with her husband's plans, and she was the one behind the driving force that saw King Duncan die. When Duncan arrives at his castle, Macbeth has second thoughts about killing him and is reluctant on the same issue. It is at that point that Lady Macbeth's cruelty is brought out. Here, she is portrayed as a person who speaks on her own. In the context of, "milk of human kindness" she is implying that her husband is soft hearted just like other women. This situation is so intense that she believes that her husband may not force his way to become the king. She makes use of the idea of human kindness and persuades her husband to display her masculinity by killing king Duncan. This serves as the needed nudge that pushes her husband to murder King Duncan.
