

Rhetorical Analysis Of The Plastic Pink Flamingo: A Natural History

With a sarcastic tone, writer Jennifer Price describes the relationship between the notorious pink flamingo and common culture in an effort to highlight the materialism of Americans during the 1950's.

Price immediately exhibits her sarcastic tone with the title of her essay "The Plastic Pink Flamingo: A Natural History." This is rather ironic, as she portrays a piece of cheap, pink plastic as something that has sculpted our society in a monumental way. To most educated readers, this would seem bizarre, which is the writer's goal: for the reader to fully grasp how unfitting it is to have this cheap piece of plastic as a social icon. In conjunction with the previous idea, Price begins her essay with bold diction by emphasizing how tourists are often "flocking" to Florida and departing with new flamingo souvenirs. As a result, the flamingo became "synonymous with wealth." The author illustrates, in this case, how the flamingo is now the "face" of Florida, now being used as something for Floridians to make a profit from. Price continues with her use of irony and sarcastic tone, specifically when discussing the two differing ideas that are separated by the short sentence, "But no matter." Prior to this statement, Price acknowledges how flamingos were previously looked down upon and almost hunted to the brink of their extinction. However, following this short sentence, Price highlights the popularity that the flamingo gained during the 1950s. These two ideas contradict each other, clearly, which further manifests the idea that Americans now "worshipping" this molded piece of plastic is undoubtedly ironic.
