

ROTATIONAL EQUILIBRIUM: SIMULATING ASSIGNMENT

GOALS: After this activity, you will be able to calculate the condition <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=3333333333> for the system to be in rotational equilibrium. You will also be able to calculate the condition for the system to be in rotational equilibrium and the condition for the system to be in rotational equilibrium.

Rotational equilibrium occurs when the net torque on the system is zero. This means that the sum of all the torques acting on the system is zero. The torque is the product of the force and the distance from the pivot point to the point of application of the force. The torque is a vector quantity, and it is represented by the symbol  $\tau$ . The torque is calculated as follows:

Problem 1: A 100 kg mass is suspended from a horizontal beam.

Calculate the torque on the beam due to the weight of the mass. The mass is 100 kg and the distance from the pivot point to the mass is 2.0 m. The torque is calculated as follows:

Answer: The torque on the beam due to the weight of the mass is 1960 N·m.

For the system to be in rotational equilibrium, the net torque must be zero. This means that the sum of all the torques acting on the system must be zero.

Problem 2: A 100 kg mass is suspended from a horizontal beam. The beam is 2.0 m long and the pivot point is at the center of the beam. The torque on the beam due to the weight of the mass is 1960 N·m. Calculate the torque on the beam due to the weight of the beam.
