Modeling Spatial and Economic Impacts of Disasters Yasuhide Okuyama, Stephanie E. Chang, 2013-06-29 This volume is dedicated to the memory of Barclay G Jones Professor of City and Regional Planning and Regional Science at Cornell University Over a decade ago Barclay took on a fledgling area of study economic modeling of disasters and nurtured its early development He served as the social science program director at the National Center for Earthquake Engineering Research NCEER a university consortium sponsored by the National Science Foundation and the Federal Emergency Management Agency of the United States In this capacity Barclay shepherded and attracted a number of regional scientists to the study of disasters He organized a conference held in the ill fated World Trade Center in September 1995 on The Economic Consequences of Earthquakes Preparing for the Unexpected He persistently advocated the importance of social science research in an establishment dominated by less than sympathetic natural scientists and engineers In 1993 Barclay organized the first of a series of sessions on Measuring Regional Economic Effects of Unscheduled Events at the North American Meetings of the Regional Science Association International RSAI This unusual nomenclature brought attention to the challenge that disasters largely unanticipated often sudden and always disorderly pose to the regional science modeling tradition The sessions provided an annual forum for a growing coalition of researchers where previously the literature had been fragmentary scattered and episodic Since Barclay's unexpected passing in 1997 we have continued this effort in his tradition
