House Mountain divided

House Mountain looms in the distance beyond Virginia Military Institute on Thursday. The mountain is owned by the Virginia Outdoors Foundation.

The future of the huge Rockbridge landmark is uncertain — will there be logging or pure preservation?

LEXINGTON — Twenty-five years ago, thousands of people pinched their dollars together and bought a primitive mountain in Rockbridge County for $325,000. Not just any mountain, but an iconic double-peak formation that lends to residents of Rockbridge County the same sense of place and direction that Roanoke's have in their relationship with Mill Mountain and its star.

"One can hardly be anywhere in Rockbridge County and not see House Mountain. Some of our most prized views are of House Mountain," said Barbara Walsh, executive director of the Rockbridge Area Conservation Council. "If you go into any art gallery around here, you'll find paintings, stained glass and jewelry. It is a sacred place, a very special place and emblematic of who we are and what we are."

'Flawed system' fuels rise in child immigration

An investigation found that many children who flee to the U.S. are staying in the country for years with few to no consequences.

By Alicia A. Caldwell

WASHINGTON — Thousands of immigrant children fleeing poverty and violence in Central America cross alone into the United States and live in American cities, attend public schools and possibly work here five years without consequences.

The child refugees are an overburdened, deeply flawed system of immigration courts and a 2002 law intended to protect children's welfare, an Associated Press investigation finds.

Driving the dramatic increases in these immigrants is the recognition throughout Honduras, Guatemala and El Salvador that children who make the dangerous trip can effectively remain in the U.S. for years

See IMMIGRATION, 6

Young detainees sleep in a cell at a customs facility in Toluca. Immigrant children often spend a month in custody before reuniting with their parents.
