Gender Complementarity and Christian Personalism Mary Veronica Sabelli, John P. Hittinger, 2025 When in the 1970s Sister Prudence Allen RSM began to investigate philosophical thought on woman the question was considered to be at best a marginal area for philosophical research Rather it was seen as a sociological anthropological psychological or political issue This book confirms that today partly due to Allen's groundbreaking work the complementarity of man and woman is an important and fruitful area of research in philosophy providing an evaluative framework that enriches and challenges many other disciplines No one could have foreseen the centrality of her research for questions of gender theory that are in the third decade of the 21st century in the forefront of public attention In the present volume leading authors in the area of sex gender complementarity reflect upon and further develop various aspects of Allen's research. In 14 original scholarly essays some contributors build upon Allen's project of exploring the concept of woman throughout the history of philosophy. Others explore the work of 20th century philosophers most of them Christian Personalists whom Allen credits with significant influence on the development of integral gender complementarity such as Karol Wojtya a John Paul II Jacques Maritain Edith Stein Emmanuel Mounier W Norris Clarke SJ and Bernard Lonergan SJ. Still other contributors consider Marian spirituality analogies between Benedictine spirituality and the physiological realities of a woman's body during pregnancy seminary education in the writings of Allen and others and the impact of Allen's work on the real lives of women in families the Church and professional life. Upon completing her magisterial three volume work The Concept of Woman Allen passed the baton to a new generation of scholars stating "The next phases will be developed by those who themselves take the argument further and deeper in their own research writing living and lecturing." The present volume takes up the baton carrying Allen's work forward and paying tribute to the lifetime achievement of a great scholar.

The Soledad Children: The Fight to End Discriminatory IQ Tests Marty Glick, Maurice Jourdan, 2019-09-30. Ten year old Arturo Velazquez was born and raised in a farm labor camp in Soledad California. He was bright and gregarious but he didn't speak English when he started first grade. When he entered third grade in 1968 the psychologist at Soledad Elementary School gave him an English language IQ test. Based on the results he was placed in a class for the Educable Mentally Retarded (EMR). Arturo wasn't the only Spanish speaking child in the room all but one were from farmworker families. All were devastated by the stigma and lack of opportunity to learn. In 1969 attorneys at California Rural Legal Assistance (CRLA) discovered California public schools were misusing English language culturally biased IQ tests by asking questions like "Who wrote Romeo and Juliet" to place Spanish speaking students into EMR classes. Additionally Mexican American children were not the only minorities impacted. While African American and Mexican American students made up 21.5% of the state population they were 48% of special education programs. Written by two of the attorneys who led the charge against the unjust denial of an education to Mexican American youth The Soledad Children: The Fight to End Discriminatory IQ Tests recounts the history of both the CRLA and the class action suit filed in 1970 Diana v the State Board of Education on behalf of 13,000 Hispanic kids already placed in EMR classes and another 100,000 at risk of being relegated to a virtual purgatory. From securing removal from EMR classes for the misplaced to ensuring revised appropriate testing for students throughout the state this engrossing book recounts the historic struggle by lawyers parents psychologists and legislators to guarantee all affected young people in California received equitable access to education.
