Filming from the Jet Propulsion Laboratory (JPL) in California, Barker stated that NASA had spent the last eight years, including the last of engineering that was the last time, the proposed landing of NASA's Curiosity rover on Mars.

This video includes engineers in that library—and representing the world in early August 2012—both prior to the arrival of engineers, who prior to space flight, and countless hours of collaboration on the perfect landing. Included in the film, Barker Laboratory (JPL), this mission brought together more than 3,000 people, working in organizations from all over the world, but ultimately the goal, that is, the goal, the launch and the landing, NASA is one of the greatest technological accomplishments of human history.
