references are drawn largely from previous diagnostics and technical assistance reports of the World Bank The application of country diagnostics and assessments has revealed a need to address the following issues when undertaking a country reform in PIM Clarification of the definition and scope of public investment and public investment management Establishment of a sound legal regulatory and institutional setting for PIM making sure it is linked to the budget process Allocation of roles and responsibilities for key players in PIM across government Strengthening of guidance on project preappraisal appraisal and selection prioritization procedures and deepening of project appraisal methodologies Integration of strategic planning project appraisal selection and capital budgeting Management of multiyear capital budget allocations and commitments Efforts to address effective implementation procurement and monitoring of projects Strengthening of asset management and ex post evaluation Integration of PIM and public private partnership PPP in a unified framework Rationalization and prioritization of the existing PIM project portfolio Development of a PIM database and information technology in the form of a PIM information system The PIM Reference Guide does not seek to provide definitive answers or standard guidance for the common PIM issues facing countries Nor does it seek to provide a detailed template for replication across countries this would be impossible given the diversity of country situations Instead each chapter begins with an overview of the specific reform issue lists approaches and experiences from different countries and summarizes the references and good practices to be considered in designing country specific reform actions

Fair and Equitable Benefit-sharing in International Law Elisa Morgera, 2024-04-24 Fair and equitable benefit sharing is a diffuse legal phenomenon in international law The continued proliferation of benefit sharing clauses can be explained by their appeal as an optimistic frame in addressing sustainability and equity concerns related to bio based innovation the use of natural resources environmental protection and knowledge creation In principle fair and equitable benefit sharing serves to recognize encourage and incentivise sustainable human relationships with the environment by focusing on equity issues arising from the most intractable challenges of our time such as loss of biodiversity climate change poverty and global epidemics Empirical evidence however indicates that in practice benefit sharing rarely achieves its fairness and equity objectives and ends up entrenching or worsening inequitable relationships with little to no benefit for the environment Instead of focusing on fair and equitable benefit sharing in sub specialist areas of international law in isolation Elisa Morgera assesses the phenomenon from a general international law perspective and through comparison across international environmental law international human rights law international health law and the law of the sea Strengthened by insights from local level case studies in different regions and sectors this book looks toward overcoming the limitations inherent in individual international regimes and addressing the shortcomings in benefit sharing implementation Morgera's topical and comprehensive analysis reveals opportunities to advance fairness and equity in benefit sharing through a mutually supportive interpretation of international biodiversity law and international human rights law as well as opportunities to contribute to future research in areas such as international health law international law on outer space and international economic law This is an open access title It is made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 4.0 International licence It is available to read and download as a PDF version on the Oxford Academic platform
