family stories spanning more than a century Early in the 20th Century her parents came to America as children from Eastern Europe This book of memories begins with the story of their courageous journey across a continent and an ocean to a new beginning It then takes us through her childhood growing up in Brooklyn New York during the depression and the impact of World War II Graduation from Brooklyn College was an important milestone Then marriage and raising a family of six children The final sections concern retirement her life in Atlanta and adventures with all the grandchildren Leila has been collecting stories for seventy nine years but it wasn't until she retired that she started writing them down This collection began as an annual letter of stories and reminiscences sent to her children and grandchildren It soon became apparent that the stories needed to be collected and published What she considered her ordinary life is perhaps more extraordinary than she thought This work has been a labor of love and there are many stories yet to be written Volume two must be on the way because we still don't know the logic behind David's request for Spanish Pie for his birthday cake or about the day Ilene played hooky from school or when Wendy was left behind in the Capitol in Washington DC or the story of how Quanky Marcie's toy duck went flying out the car window The Complete America's Test Kitchen TV Show Cookbook
