Italy is left out of most contemporary comparative studies of political systems This omission can be due neither to any intrinsic unimportance of Italy in Europe nor to the absence of parallel similarities and differences the prerequisites of comparative explanation between the Italian and other Western political systems It may be due to the paucity of case studies of Italian politics upon which comparisons would have to be based Professor Bucci's book will contribute toward overcoming this scarcity Not only is Italy under represented in comparative studies of post war European politics but there is also a shortage of monographs dealing with particular aspects of Italian politics since the founding of the Republic especially in English I hope that Dr Bucci's work which is based exclusively upon original Italian sources signals the beginning of exploration more systematic than hitherto of the goldmine for case studies which post war Italian politics presents to political scientists History Lubomyr Roman Wynar, 1963 Origins of a new economic union (7th-12th centuries). Preliminary results of the nEU-Med project: October 2015-March 2017 Giovanna Bianchi, Richard Hodges, 2018-10-11 The nEU Med project is part of the Horizon 2020 programme in the ERC Advanced project category It began in October 2015 and will be concluded in October 2020 The University of Siena is the host institution of the project The project is focussed upon two Tuscan riverine corridors leading from the Gulf of Follonica in the Tyrrhenian Sea to the Colline Metallifere It aims to document and analyze the form and timeframe of economic growth in this part of the Mediterranean which took place between the 7th and the 12thc Central to this is an understanding of the processes of change in human settlements in the natural and farming landscapes in relation to the exploitation of resources and in the implementation of differing political strategies This volume brings together the research presented at the first nEUMed workshop held in Siena on 11-12 April 2017 The aim of the workshop was to draw up an initial survey of research and related work on the project one and a half years after its inception The project is composed of several research units Each unit covers an aspect of the interdisciplinary research underpinning the nEU Med project each with their own methodology For this first volume of results it was decided not to give an account of all the work carried out within all the units but to select those lines of investigation which at the end of the first year and a half have made it possible to articulate and develop an interdisciplinary research strategy Fascist Italy and the League of Nations, 1922-1935 Elisabetta Tollardo, 2016-10-27 This book analyses the relationship between

Fascist Italy and the League of Nations in the interwar years By uncovering the traces of those Italians working in the organization this volume investigates Fascist Italy's membership of the League and explores the dynamics between nationalism and internationalism in Geneva The relationship between Fascist Italy and the League of Nations was contradictory shifting from active collaboration to open disagreement Previous literature has not reflected this oscillation in policy focusing disproportionately on the problems Italy caused for the League such as the Ethiopian crisis Yet Fascist Italy remained in the League for more than fifteen years and was the third largest power within the institution How did a Fascist dictatorship fit into an organization espousing principles of liberal internationalism By using archival sources from four countries Elisabetta Tollardo shows that Fascist Italy was much more concerned with and involved in the League than currently believed

The Theory of the Social Practice of Information Francesco Fattorello, 2015-07-20 In this book Fattorello addresses the differences between contingent and non contingent information The theory is translated into English for the first time and is contextualized and put into a historical framework by Prof Ragnetti's additional text sixteen people nine women and seven men were brought to the attention of the ecclesiastical authorities in Venice because they were reporting visions revelations and special privileges from heaven All were investigated and most were put on trial by the Holy Office of the Inquisition on a charge of heresy under various rubrics that might be translated as pretense of holiness Anne Jacobson Schutte looks closely at the institutional cultural and religious contexts that gave rise to the phenomenon of visionaries in Venice To explain the worldview of the prosecutors as well as the prosecuted Schutte examines inquisitorial trial dossiers theological manuals spiritual treatises and medical works that shaped early modern Italians understanding of the differences between orthodox Catholic belief and heresy In particular she demonstrates that socially constructed assumptions about males and females affected how the Inquisition treated the accused parties The women charged with heresy were non elites who generally claimed to experience ecstatic visions and receive messages the men were usually clergy who responded to these women without claiming any supernatural experience themselves Because they should have known better the men were judged more harshly by authorities Placing the events in a context larger than just the inquisitorial process Aspiring Saints sheds new light on the history of religion the dynamics of gender relations and the ambiguous boundary between sincerity and pretense in early modern Italy Cinema, Gender, and Everyday Space Natalie Fullwood, 2015-03-05 Commedia all italiana or Comedy Italian style became popular at a time of great social change This book utilizing comedies produced in Italy from 1958 70 examines the genre's representation of gender in the everyday spaces of beaches and nightclubs offices cars and kitchens through the exploration of key spatial motifs
