Peter Gill Plays 1 Contemporary Classics:

Peter Gill Plays 1 Peter Gill, 2014-10-23 This first collection of Peter Gill's plays spans his work from 1965 to 1987. The plays are studies of love and time loss and the fear of loss. The collection includes the plays The Sleepers, Den Over Gardens, Out Small Change, Kick for Touch, In The Blue, and Mean Tears and is introduced by John Burgess. British Playwrights, 1956-1995

William W. Demastes, 1996-10-23 The year 1956 marked a point when British drama and theater fell into the hands of a group of young playwrights who revolutionized the stage. During that time playwrights such as Samuel Beckett and Harold Pinter made the British theater as rich, varied, and vital as any national theater in history. This reference chronicles the history of British theater from 1956 to 1995 by providing detailed information about the playwrights of that period. Included are entries for some three dozen British playwrights active between 1956 and 1995. Entries are arranged alphabetically to facilitate use. Each entry supplies biographical information, the production history for particular plays, a survey of the playwright's critical reception, an assessment of the dramatist's work, and primary and secondary bibliographies. A selected general bibliography at the end of the volume directs the reader to important sources of additional information about this period in theater history. Performing Early Modern Drama Today Pascale Aebischer, Kathryn

Prince, 2012-10-11 While much attention has been devoted to performances of Shakespeare's plays today, little has been focused on modern productions of the plays of his contemporaries such as Marlowe, Webster, and Jonson. Performing Early Modern Drama Today offers an overview of early modern performance featuring chapters by academics, teachers, and practitioners incorporating a variety of approaches. The book examines modern performances in both Britain and America and includes interviews with influential directors, close analysis of particular stage and screen adaptations, and detailed appendices of professional and amateur productions. Chapters examine intellectual and practical opportunities to analyze what is at stake when the plays of Shakespeare's contemporaries are performed by ours. Whether experimenting with original performance practices or contemporary theatrical and cinematic ones, productions of early modern drama offer an inspiring, sometimes unusual, always interesting perspective on the plays they interpret for modern audiences. American Book Publishing Record, 2002

Early Modern Theatricality Henry S. Turner, 2013-12 Early Modern Theatricality brings together some of the most innovative critics in the field to examine the many conventions that characterized early modern theatricality. It generates fresh possibilities for criticism, combining historical, formal, and philosophical questions in order to provoke our rediscovery of early modern drama. The British National Bibliography Arthur James Wells, 2001 Twelfth Night: A Critical Reader, 2013-11-21 Twelfth Night is the most mature and fully developed of Shakespeare's comedies and as well as being one of his most popular plays, represents a crucial moment in the development of his art. Theatre Today is a perfect companion to Britain's burgeoning theatre writing scene. It explores the context from which new plays have emerged and charts the way that playwrights have responded to the key concerns of the decade and helped shape our sense of who we are. In recent years British theatre has seen a renaissance in playwriting accompanied by a proliferation of writing awards and new writing groups. The book provides an in-depth exploration of the industry and of the key plays and playwrights. It opens by defining what is meant by new writing and providing a study of the leading theatres such as the Royal Court, the Traverse, the Bush, the Hampstead and the National theatres together with the London fringe and the work of touring companies. In the second part Sierz provides a fascinating survey of the main issues that have characterised new plays in the first decade of the new century such as foreign policy and war, overseas economic boom and bust, divided communities and questions of identity and race. It considers too how playwrights have re-examined domestic issues of family, love, growing up and the fantasies and nightmares of the mind. Against the backdrop of economic, political and social change under New Labour, Sierz shows how British theatre responded to these changes and in doing so has been and remains deeply involved in the project of rewriting the nation. Theatre and Culture in Early Modern England, 1650-1737

Dr Catie Gill, 2013-04-28. Framed by the publication of Leviathan and the 1713 Licensing Act, this collection provides analysis of both canonical and non-canonical texts within the scope of an eighty-year period of theatre history, allowing for definition and assessment that uncouples Restoration drama from eighteenth-century drama. Individual essays demonstrate the significant contrasts between the theatre of different decades and the context of performance, paying special attention to the literary innovation and socio-political changes that contributed to the evolution of drama. Exploring the developments in both tragedy and comedy and in literary production, specific topics include the playwright's relationship to the monarch, women writers, connection to the audience, the changing market for plays and the rise of the bourgeoisie. This collection also examines aspects of gender and class through the exploration of women's impact on performance and production, masculinity and libertinism, master-servant relationships and dramatic representations of the coffee house. Accompanied by a list of Spanish/English plays and a chronology of monarch's reigns and significant changes in theatre history, From Leviathan to Licensing Act is a valuable tool for scholars of Restoration and eighteenth-century performance, providing groundwork for future research and investigation. Orange Coast Magazine, 1999-08
