Power Steering Applications Alessandro Dell'Amico,2016-02-04 This thesis deals with the Electrohydraulic Power Steering system for road vehicles using electronic pressure control valves With an ever increasing demand for safer vehicles and fewer traffic accidents steering related active safety functions are becoming more common in modern vehicles Future road vehicles will also evolve towards autonomous vehicles with several safety environmental and financial benefits A key component in realising such solutions is active steering The power steering system was initially developed to ease the driver s workload by assisting in turning the wheels This is traditionally done through a passive open centre hydraulic system and heavy trucks must still rely on fluid power due to the heavy work forces Since the purpose of the original system is to control the assistive pressure one way would be to use proportional pressure control valves Since these are electronically controlled active steering is possible and with closed centre energy efficiency can be significantly improved on In this work such a system is analysed in detail with the purpose of investigating the possible use of the system for Boost curve control and position control for autonomous driving Commercially available valves are investigated since they provide an attractive solution A model based approach is adopted where simulation of the system is an important tool Another important tool is hardware in the loop simulation A test rig of an electrohydraulic power steering system is developed This work has shown how proportional pressure control valves can be used for Boost curve control and position control and what implications this has on a system level As it turns out the valves add a great deal of time lag and with the high gain from the Boost curve this creates a control challenge The problem can be handled by tuning the Boost gain pressure response and damping and has been effectively shown through simulation and experiments For position control there is greater freedom to design the controller to fit the system The pressure response can be made fast enough for this case and the time lag is much less critical Fault Tolerant Control for an Electric Power Steering System Matthew Lawson,2009 Electric power steering EPS systems are rapidly replacing existing traditional hydraulic power steering systems due to fuel and cost savings The reliability of a column mounted EPS is improved by adding an alternate control scheme that is tolerant to a torque sensor failure FTC To accomplish this a motor model based observer is used to estimate the total torque on the motor shaft An independent estimate of the road reaction torque is generated from vehicle navigation signals and subtracted from the total to estimate the torque sensor output A Hardware in the loop HIL simulation is described where the EPS model road vehicle dynamics and developed control scheme are simulated on an Opal RTTM real time platform and a physical DC motor is placed in the loop This simulation validates the developed method under more realistic operating conditions than using software simulation alone and is more repeatable and cost effective than a full in vehicle test Electrohydraulic Power Steering - an Advanced System for Unique Applications J. E. Forbes,1987 Peugeot 307 Petrol and Diesel (01-08) Y to 08 A. K. Legg,Martynn Randall,2009-11 This is another title in the ever popular Haynes vehicle maintenance range this edition covering the Peugeot 307 both petrol and diesel engines from 2001 until 2008 Step by step instructions are provided with hundreds of illustrations and photographs to aid the budding or experienced vehicle maintainer
