Language is Politics Frank van Splunder, 2019-11-27 Language is Politics discusses power relations between languages in the world with a particular focus on English Even though English is the most widely spoken and the most powerful language worldwide it is not the lingua franca it is often supposed to be The basic tenet of this book is that languages do not exist in the natural world they are artefacts made by humans The book debunks some common myths about language and it suggests that we should be more modest in our assumptions for instance concerning the linguistic uniqueness of our own species The author argues in favour of an ecological or balanced approach to language This approach sees humans and other animals as part of the larger ecosystems that life depends on As in nature diversity is crucial to the survival of languages The current linguistic ecosystem is out of balance and this book shows that education can help to restore the balance and cope with the challenges of a multilingual and multicultural world With an ecological approach to language and a focus on narratives and personal language histories this will be key reading for researchers and academics as well as students of English language and linguistics

Piety, Politics, and Power David D. Grafton, 2009-03-16 From the time of Martin Luther's writing of On War Against the Turk in 1529 to American Lutheran military chaplains serving in the U S led invasion of Iraq in 2003 Lutheranism has had a symbiotic relationship with Islam in the Middle East framed across cultural and religious borders There have been those who have crossed these borders to engage in mission and dialogue In Piety Politics and Power David Grafton examines the origins of the American Lutheran missionary movement in the Middle East with a focus on its encounter with Muslims and the varied Lutheran theological responses toward Islam The narrative is placed within historical contexts to provide an overarching background of Middle Eastern history and Christian Muslim Relations The survey covers Lutheran missionary communities in Persia Iraq Egypt Lebanon and Jerusalem and the West Bank including the work of the Lutherans working for the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missionaries the Anglican Church Missionary Society the Lutheran Orient Mission the Lutheran Church Missouri Synod and the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America Whether enthusiastic Pietists seeking the conversion of Muslims and Jews cautious theologians in dialogue with Islam Judaism or Oriental Orthodoxy or social activists working on behalf of refugees in Egypt and the West Bank Grafton argues that these Christian missionaries were all enmeshed in the politics of the communities in which they lived and either contributed to or suffered from the realities of Middle Eastern and international politics Given the current reality of Pax Americana in the Middle East the author asks the driving question about the role of American Lutheran missions and Lutheran Middle Eastern Muslim dialogue in the age of American power in the Middle East

The Language(s) of Politics Nils Ringe, 2022-01-19 Multilingualism is an ever present feature in political contexts around the world including multilingual states and international organizations Increasingly consequential political decisions are negotiated between politicians who do not share a common native language Nils Ringe uses the European Union to investigate how politicians reliance on shared foreign languages and translation services affects politics and policy making Ringe s research illustrates how multilingualism is an inherent and consequential feature of EU politics that it depoliticizes policy making by reducing its political nature and potential for conflict An atmosphere with both foreign language use and a reliance on translation leads to communication that is simple utilitarian neutralized and involves commonly shared phrases and expressions Policymakers tend to disregard politically charged language and they are constrained in their ability to use vague or ambiguous language to gloss over disagreements by the need for consistency across languages
