Civil society

Civil society (also known as Non-governmental organizations) is those organisations that are not in any way related or connected with government. The word Civil Society may mean different thing to different people, but generally it means the involvement of people on issues that concern them from the local to the national level be it socially, economically or politically.

Members of civil society includes organizations such as trade union, ethnic association, professional bodies etc. Nigeria Labour Congress (NLC), Committee for Defence of Human Rights (CDHR).

Functions and need for civil society.

1. Civil Society assists in building and strengthening democracy
2. Civil society fosters peoples participation in the governmental and development process
3. Civil society helps to limit and control the power of the state, particularly when a country is emerging from decades of dictatorship
4. They help to stabilize the government through various activities that attract the attention for critics in relation to labour, human rights environment and other values.
5. Civil society helps in conflict resolution between government, groups and or organizations.
6. They are important channels of information dissemination and thus help citizen to collectively pursue and defend their interest and value
7. They help in promoting and defending the constitution and the rule of law.

Problems of Civil society

Certain issues militate against the effective operations of civil Society. These include:

1. Insufficient fund: Most civil society organizations reliance on government funding breeds loyalty of civil society organization to government
2. Political control: The appointment of civil society leaders into political offices has affected the character and ideology of such societies. Some also allowed themselves to be used and controlled by the government of the day.
3. Corruption: Some of the leaders take it upon themselves to enrich their pockets by embezzling money meant for the organization.
