Minimizing of Automotive Transmission Rattle Noise by Means of Gear Oils Axel Baumann, 2022-07-20 Caused by downsizing of combustion engines the torque fluctuation at the crankshaft induces torsional vibrations in the powertrain Manual transmissions and dual clutch transmissions are particularly sensitive to gear rattle noise Gear rattle noise arises from oscillations of loose parts with clearance e g idler gears synchronizer rings and gearshift sleeves The aim of this research is the formulation of a gear oil for the application in a manual transmission to minimize gear rattling noise Acoustic measurements on a gear rattle noise test bench verify the noise reduction of the developed gear oils with commonly used low oil viscosity An analysis of the transmission error proves that gear tooth impacts during rattling lead to elastic deformation of the meshing gear pairs The main source for the intensity of gear rattle noise is the additional presence of meshing impacts at the beginning of each gear pair meshing Gear rattle noise reduction can be achieved by avoiding meshing impacts e g by minimizing the traction coefficient of the gear oil

Handbook of Mechanical Engineering Calculations Tyler Gregory Hicks, 1998 All major areas of mechanical engineering are covered in this handbook subdivided under four main areas power generation plant and facility engineering environmental engineering design engineering Operations Research and Environmental Management Carlo Carraro, Alain Haurie, 2012-12-06 The activities of the Fondazione ENI Enrico Mattei cover a broad spectrum of research topics ranging from economics to engineering from environmental management at the industry or regional level to basic mathematical modeling research It is the combination of the activities on these last two topics that led the Fondazione to organise with the University of Geneva a workshop where operation research tools were designed with the aim to provide national and local policy makers with appropriate analytical and policy instruments for environmental management In the recent past attention has often been devoted to global environmental issues in which the level of policy making is either international through multi country agreements on emission control or national when environmental policies are designed to control domestic pollution Many environmental problems however have a local or regional dimension Even when their dimension is global e g in the case of the greenhouse gas effect relevant decisions on emission control such as the adoption of energy saving utilities are taken at the local level In many countries the current legislation imposes the local authorities to prepare plans and adopt measures to control energy consumption or to reduce waste of natural resources It is therefore important to analyze the way in which local or regional authorities optimise their environmental management
