Self-Evaluation Paper

Giving four speeches in class and afterward observing them like an audience member has been a helpful and interesting experience. Messages that I felt would be delivered successfully ended up falling flat, while others that I worried over turned out positively at times. This has benefited me by allowing an assessment of the planning and preparation stages along with the execution and result. Entering the class, I felt that I was already a rather strong public speaker. Now I know more clearly the many areas on which a person can focus when honing this skill. I am also aware which of these areas I must improve upon to become a more effective public speaker.

I have had a number of opportunities in the past to get in front of people and speak. Usually it was related to work and involved the demonstration of a procedure or educating people on a subject. While this class did not introduce anything immediately unfamiliar to me (such as getting in front of a group and doing something worthwhile with everyone's time), the objectivity of speechmaking was very much a new idea for me. Along with this came learning many of the tools a speaker must employ when crafting a message that is to be received by an audience of individuals—also a new idea. In the past, I always felt confident in my ability to deliver a speech or give a demonstration effectively, but now I realize that I did not generally concern myself with the many speechmaking tools that have been brought up in this class. Knowing one's

Assessing Writing to Support Learning Sandra Murphy, Peggy O'Neill, 2022-11-08 In this book authors Murphy and O'Neill propose a new way forward moving away from high stakes test based writing assessment and the curriculum it generates and toward an approach to assessment that centers on student learning and success Reviewing the landscape of writing assessment and existing research based theories on writing the authors demonstrate how a test based approach to accountability and current practices have undermined effective teaching and learning of writing This book bridges the gap between real world writing that takes place in schools college and careers and the writing that students are asked to do in standardized writing assessments to offer a new ecological approach to writing assessment Murphy and O'Neill's new way forward turns accountability inside out to help teachers understand the role of formative assessments and assessment as inquiry It also brings the outside in by bridging the gap between authentic writing and writing assessment Through these two strands readers learn how assessment systems can be restructured to become better aligned with contemporary understandings of writing and with best practices in teaching With examples of assessments from elementary school through college chapters include guidance on designing assessments to address multiple kinds of writing integrate reading with writing and incorporate digital technology and multimodality Emphasizing the central role that teachers play in systemic reform the authors offer sample assessments developed with intensive teacher involvement that support learning and provide information for the evaluation of programs and schools This book is an essential resource for graduate students instructors scholars and policymakers in writing assessment composition and English education

Student Self-Evaluation: Fostering Reflective Learning Jean MacGregor, 1993 For several decades college teachers have been asking students to engage in self evaluation to reflect on their academic work and describe and evaluate it in writing Student self evaluation is both a process consisting of acts of reflecting composing and writing and a product a written document Student self evaluation does not obviate the need for student exams and papers crucial indicators of student mastery of material or complexity of thinking Rather student self evaluation supplements and complements that information by asking students to describe in their own words their learning and its value to them This writing and the conversations that faculty members and students have about it can be instructional illuminating and at times transformative Student self evaluation is primarily a learning strategy but it is also a promising assessment approach while enriching learning for students it also can help teachers and institutions learn about student learning This volume of New Directions for Teaching and Learning introduces the many forms of student self evaluation in undergraduate teaching settings and describes how student self evaluation creates connections between learners and learning knowers and the known and the self and the mind This is the 56th issue of the quarterly journal New Directions for Teaching and Learning For more information on the series please see the Journals and Periodicals page
