Capital Theory, the Surplus Approach, and Effective Demand Pierangelo Garegnani, 2024-10-19 This book presents a representative set of Pierangelo Garegnani's 1930-2011 works on the theory of value and distribution It features a selection of essays chosen by Garegnani himself concerning central aspects of his work first and foremost the continuation and development of Piero Sraffa's effort to elaborate an alternative to the dominance of marginalist thought on the theory of value and distribution Garegnani articulates and extends Sraffa's contribution in two directions the critique of marginalist theory with respect to the treatment of capital and the reappraisal of the surplus approach to distribution proper to classical political economy. In turn, these two strands of analysis are combined in Garegnani's project to make the Keynesian principle of effective demand more robust and general by dropping the unnecessary elements of marginalism and linking it to the classical explanation of distribution. This book reveals how Garegnani's contribution has advanced the degree of theoretical elaboration for several issues that fall within the developmental paths of economic analysis opened by Sraffa and Keynes. It begins with a comprehensive introduction in which Garegnani illustrates the conceptual path that links the contributions presented here. The starting point of this intellectual journey is Garegnani's previously unpublished doctoral thesis A Problem in the Theory of Distribution from Ricardo to Wicksell prepared at the University of Cambridge under the supervision of Piero Sraffa and Maurice Dobb, which is followed by various essays selected by Garegnani on the critique of marginalist theories, the classical approach to value and distribution, and the role of aggregate demand for the long-run trends of output and capital accumulation. The book is a must-read for all scholars interested in the resumption and development of the classical approach as well as economic theory in general and the history of economic thought. E-Infrastructures for Data

Publishing in Biodiversity Science Vincent Smith, Ljubomir Penev, 2011-11-28. This collection of articles developed in association with the EU-funded ViBRANT project illustrates how advances in research infrastructures are reciprocally changing the practice of taxonomy. A detailed review of data issues in the life sciences. Thessen and Patterson 2011 sets the tone for subsequent articles in this special issue, whose contributions broadly fall into three categories. The initial articles consider some of the major infrastructure platforms that support the production and management of biodiversity data. These include the EDIT Platform for Cybertaxonomy, Wiki-based approaches including BioWikiFarm and the Scratchpads Virtual Research Environment. Later articles provide deeper coverage of specialist areas of interest to taxonomic and biodiversity researchers. The topics covered include the mark-up Penev et al 2011 and management King et al 2011 of taxonomic literature, geospatial assessment of species distributions Bachman et al 2011 and licensing issues specific to life science data Hagedorn et al 2011. Finally, the special issue closes with a series of research and review papers that provide detailed use cases illustrating how these research infrastructures are being put into practice. Highlights from this section include citizen science approaches to collecting species information by the COMBER Marine observation network Arvanitidis et al 2011 and the Australian Bush Blitz programme Lambkin and Bartlett 2011, use of new tools for data publishing like the Global Biodiversity Information Facility GBIF Integrated Publishing Toolkit IPT and the DRYAD Data Repository, new forms of publication via data papers that allow checklists and identification keys to be formally published as structured datasets e.g. Narwade et al 2011, and finally new taxonomic revisions and species descriptions constructed from within the collaborative systems like XPER2 and Scratchpads. The Publishers' Trade List Annual, 1992 Proceedings of the Parliament
