

Example Conclusion

There can be no doubt that Ken Kesey's detailed, honest and scathing characterisation of Nurse Ratched and R.P. McMurphy is a criticism of society's treatment of mental illness during the 1950s. Nurse Ratched's desire for order seeks to manipulate her patients and staff in order to gain complete power. As the novel unfolds we begin to understand that she is simply the human face for society. She is part of the system that ultimately seeks to control everyone. McMurphy's unlikely Christ-like character represents salvation and freedom. Their relationship is confrontational from the beginning because they recognise the power they each have. Kesey's final message is a warning to us all about being complacent and passive in our lives. He wants to show us that we need to have courage to live our lives in spite of how difficult things may become.

Understanding and Evaluating Research Sue L. T. McGregor,2017-10-25 Understanding and Evaluating Research A Critical Guide shows students how to be critical consumers of research and to appreciate the power of methodology as it shapes the research question the use of theory in the study the methods used and how the outcomes are reported The book starts with what it means to be a critical and uncritical reader of research followed by a detailed chapter on methodology and then proceeds to a discussion of each component of a research article as it is informed by the methodology The book encourages readers to select an article from their discipline learning along the way how to assess each component of the article and come to a judgment of its rigor or quality as a scholarly report Writing a Biomedical Research Paper Brian Budgell,2008-12-05 All of us in biomedicine understand the urgency of getting experimental results into print as quickly as possible Yet this critical step in the cascade from research conception to publication receives almost no attention in our formal training It is as if we have been put to sea without a compass Our collective failure to achieve widespread literacy in our own language Biomedical Language seriously impedes the important process of disseminating new biomedical knowledge and thereby improving the human condition It is also a significant personal concern for researchers and clinicians in the highly competitive publish or perish environment of contemporary academia Of course if we are clever or lucky enough to come up with that Nobel Prize winning discovery great science will carry the day and we are likely to get published even if our writing is fairly horrid But most of us who publish are bread and butter scientists We compete for space in journals which may only accept 10% or 20% of the submissions that they receive each year For us convincing engaging writing will make the difference between being published or rejected or at least it will make the difference between being published on first submission or having to go through a number of revisions or journals None of this is to propose that good writing can make a
