alternative methods has evolved from their conception as adjuncts to traditional animal toxicity tests to replacements for them. This volume in the History of Toxicology and Environmental Health series explores the history of alternative test development, validation and use with an emphasis on humanity and good science in line with the Three Rs Replacement Reduction Refinement concept expounded by William Russell and Rex Burch in 1959 in their now classic volume The Principles of Humane Experimental Technique. The book describes the historical development of technologies that have influenced the application of alternatives in toxicology and safety testing. These range from single cell monocultures to sophisticated miniaturised and microfluidic organism on a chip devices and also include molecular modelling, chemoinformatics and QSAR analysis and the use of stem cells, tissue engineering and hollow fibre bioreactors. This has been facilitated by the wider availability of human tissues, advances in tissue culture, analytical and diagnostic methods, increases in computational processing capabilities and a greater understanding of cell biology and molecular mechanisms of toxicity. These technological developments have enhanced the range and information content of the toxicity endpoints detected and therefore the relevance of test systems and data interpretation while new techniques for non invasive diagnostic imaging and high resolution detection methods have permitted an increased role for human studies. Several key examples of how these technologies are being harnessed to meet 21st century safety assessment challenges are provided including their deployment in integrated testing schemes in conjunction with kinetic modelling and in specialised areas such as inhalation toxicity studies.

TRAC: Trends in Analytical Chemistry Y. Gohshi, J.F.K. Huber, T. Townshend, 2013-09-17

Trends in Analytical Chemistry Volume 12 focuses on the advancements of processes, technologies, automation and applications of analytical chemistry. The selection first offers information on single cell analysis at the level of a single human erythrocyte and micellar catalysis in reaction rate methods. Topics include analytical strategies, analysis of single erythrocytes, kinetic aspects of micellar catalysis and micellar kinetic multicomponent determination. The text then takes a look at advances in the field of laser atomic spectroscopy and molecular recognition of sugars including detection of sugar complexation, driving force and selectivity of sugar complexation, atomization, excitation source and diagnostic tool. The manuscript examines charge remote fragmentations for structural determination of lipids, advances in speciation analysis by capillary gas chromatography and chemical pattern recognition and multivariate analysis for QSAR studies. The publication also ponders on in vivo microdialysis sampling in pharmacokinetic studies, a novel single beam optical spectrophotometer for fast luminescence absorption and reflection measurements of turbid materials and techniques for the study and characterization of advanced materials. The selection is a dependable reference for readers interested in the trends in analytical chemistry.
