Zens,2017-01-30 Most people who use the Internet at all and who browse online for any type of product or so called free download are going to encounter a virus on their computer It s practically inevitable that you will someday inadvertently download a virus The real question is Are you going to download a virus without being aware of it or Will you be equipped to tackle the virus before it lodges itself on your computer s hard drive One painful lesson to be learned online is that you should never follow the directions given to you by a website which is trying to infect your computer with an unwanted program or virus A common tactic to infect your computer is for a website to post the following warning message You have downloaded a virus At that point there will be an option for you to remove the infection by clicking on a particular button such as OK Never ever give in to the temptation to do so It may take all of your will power but if you want to keep your computer s hard drive clean and running efficiently do not succumb to the temptation to click that button The makers of the website know how hard it is to resist the temptation The moment we believe that our computer s health is at risk we will gladly click on whatever button is available Essentially the trick is that the website owners and designers have played you into thinking that your own computer is delivering the message that it needs to rid your computer of a virus when in fact the website itself is prompting you with its own internal message PC Magazine Fighting Spyware, Viruses, and Malware Ed Tittel,2004-12-31 Think there s no malicious software on your computer PC Magazine thinks you should think again Scans by ISPs have revealed as many as twenty eight spyware programs running on the average home computer like yours That s a lot of people prying into what s on
