Dr. Shahida Sajjad
Assistant Professor
Department of Special Education
University of Karachi

ABSTRACT

The purpose of this study was to determine the effectiveness of various teaching methods used for teaching students at graduate level. Two hundred and twenty undergraduate students studying in 11 departments of Faculty of Arts, University of Karachi, were interviewed about their perceptions of best and effective teaching methods and the reason for that. Most of the students rated lecture method as the best teaching method. Reasons included; teacher provides all knowledge related to topic, time saving, students attentively listen lecture and take notes etc. The group discussion was rated as the second best method of teaching because of, more participation of students, the learning is more effective, the students don't have to rely on rote learning, and this method develops creativity among students etc. Students' perception and ratings about the interesting and effective teaching methods is a way to suggest improvements in teaching/ learning process.

Introduction:

Teaching and learning are the two sides of a coin. The most accepted criterion for measuring good teaching is the amount of student learning that occurs. There are consistently high correlations between students' ratings of the "amount learned" in the course and their overall ratings of the teacher and the course. Those who learned more gave their teachers higher ratings (Cohen, 1981; Theall and Franklin, 2001). This same criterion was also put forth by Thomas Angelo, when he said, "teaching in the absence of learning is just talking." Doyle.T. (n.d.). A teacher's effectiveness is again about student learning.

The literature on teaching is crammed full of well researched ways that teachers can present content and skills that will enhance the opportunities for students to learn. It is equally filled with suggestions of what not to do in the classroom. However, there is no rule book on which teaching methods match up best to which skills and/or content that is

Research as a Basis for Teaching Lawrence Stenhouse, 1985 These selections from the work of Lawrence Stenhouse make a sustained argument for research as a basis for teaching (Free Sample) Super 20 UGC NET Teaching & Research Aptitude Paper 1 Mock Tests with 5 Online Tests Disha Experts, 2021-09-01 Being A Teacher in the 21st Century Leon Benade, 2017-03-01 This book provides scholars teacher educators as well as reflective school leaders and teachers with valuable insights into what it is to be a teacher in the 21st century. It does so by presenting original research based on a study of several New Zealand schools between 2013 and 2015 and in particular a focussed study of four of those schools in 2015. The book draws on the findings to take stock of some of the central manifestations of 21st century learning especially digital pedagogies and the collaborative practices associated with teaching and learning in modern learning environments. It reflects on the mental shifts and sometimes painful transitions teachers and leaders are making and experiencing as they enter uncharted waters moving from traditional classroom practices to ones that emphasise collaboration teamwork and the radical de-centring of their personal roles. It outlines a blueprint for understanding how to navigate these changes and describes and explains the nature of pedagogical shifts apparent in digital classrooms and modern learning environments. Successful Strategies for Teaching Undergraduate Research Marta Deyrup, Beth Bloom, 2013-09-11 Editors Marta Deyrup and Beth Bloom have brought together well known educators from the fields of library science communication composition and education to show you how to develop successful strategies for teaching undergraduates how to conduct basic research and write papers. Chapters cover each step of the research process beginning appropriately with separate pieces from a librarian and from an academic on how to construct good research assignments. Following chapters cover establishing the research question assessing the research process information ethics and the protocols of research and using new modes and media to communicate research findings. The book fully explores current theories on pedagogy and provides practical demonstrations of how library instruction can reinforce critical thinking and set the groundwork in place for life long learning.
