Handbook of Management Communication François Cooren, Peter Stücheli-Herlach, 2021-08-23 Management communication encompasses a wide range of practices that define modern organizations. Those practices are in many respects constituted and formed and contextualized by the use of language. This handbook traces the theoretical modelling of these practices by contemporary research. It explores their linguistic features and performance in specific situations of value creation and in various modes. It is a companion for students and scholars of applied linguistics and organizational communication as well as management and strategy research

Cultural Competency Training in a Global Society Richard H. Dana, James Allen, 2008-11-13 Cultural competence is more than an admirable goal; it is an essential skill set for mental health professionals working in a diverse global society marked by crisis and trauma. It is essential for clinicians to understand the intricate mix of history and self-concept identity and tradition that are central not only for ameliorating psychological problems but to foster psychological health and well-being. As the definition of culture takes on broader meanings at once embracing multiple identities and increasing globalization, Cultural Competency Training in a Global Society brings a vital perspective and practical understanding to clinical counseling and school psychologists as well as to graduate students entering these fields. By describing a comprehensive training model for professional education and practice in the United States with ethnic minority groups, indigenous populations, immigrants and refugees, this book has relevance for other multicultural societies because the implications are multidisciplinary in focus and potentially international in scope. The existing and emergent global multicultural populations described in this book represent the neglected human faces of economic globalization. Among the topics covered: Requirements for professional training in cultural competency; Research basis for cultural competency training; International resources and their usage in training and practice; Multicultural assessment in the service of intervention; Evaluating cultural competency training.

Second International Handbook of Educational Leadership and Administration Kenneth A. Leithwood,P.
Hallinger,2012-12-06 The first International Handbook of Educational Leadership and Administration Leithwood et al was published in 1996 and quickly became something of a best seller for reference works within education Such success we suggest was at least partly due to the unprecedeted global waves of concern for improving schools launched in the mid 1980 s combined with a widespread belief in leadership as the single most powerful contribution to such improvement The roots of this belief can be found in evidence produced by the early effective schools research although there is a romance with leadership as an explanation for success in many non school enterprises as well During the two year period during which this current handbook was being written activity in the realms of school leadership school improvement and leadership development gained further momentum The English government created its new National College of School Leadership and several Asian nations announced new initiatives in leadership selection preparation and development
