Process This Undergraduate Writing In Composition Studies Nancy DeJoy:

Process This Nancy DeJoy, 2004-10 In Process This Nancy DeJoy argues that even recent revisions to composition studies cultural studies service learning and social process movements continue to repress the subjects and methodologies that should be central especially at the level of classroom practice Designed to move student discourses beyond the classroom these approaches nonetheless continue to position composition students and teachers as mere consumers of the discipline This means that the subjects methodologies and theory practice relationships that define the field are often absent in composition classrooms Arguing that the world inside and outside of the academy cannot be any different if the profession stays the same DeJoy creates a pedagogy and a plan for faculty development that revisions the prewrite write rewrite triad to open spaces for participation and contribution to all members of first year writing classrooms Class in the Composition

Classroom Genesee M. Carter, William H. Thelin, 2017-12-01 Class in the Composition Classroom considers what college writing instructors should know about their working class students their backgrounds experiences identities learning styles and skills in order to support them in the classroom across campus and beyond In this volume contributors explore the nuanced and complex meaning of working class and the particular values these college writers bring to the classroom The real college experiences of veterans rural Midwesterners and trade unionists show that what it means to be working class is not obvious or easily definable Resisting outdated characterizations of these students as underprepared and dispensing with a one size fits all pedagogical approach contributors address how region and education impact students explore working class pedagogy and the ways in which it can reify social class in teaching settings and give voice to students lived experiences As community colleges and universities seek more effective ways to serve working class students and as educators parents and politicians continue to emphasize the value of higher education for students of all financial and social backgrounds conversations must take place among writing instructors and administrators about how best to serve and support working class college writers Class in the Composition Classroom will help writing instructors inside and outside the classroom prepare all their students for personal academic and professional communication Contributors Aaron Barlow Cori Brewster Patrick Corbett Harry Denny Cassandra Dulin Miriam Eisenstein Ebsworth Mike Edwards Rebecca Fraser Brett Griffiths Anna Knutson Liberty Kohn Nancy Mack Holly Middleton Robert Mundy Missy Nieveen Phegley Jacqueline Preston James E Romesburg Edie Marie Roper Aubrey Schiavone Christie Toth Gail G Verdi Reimagining Process Kyle Jensen, 2015 Reimagining Process explores how process and attending concepts such as reflection care power and portfolios might play a more prominent role in emerging writing studies research Reformers, Teachers, Writers Neal Lerner, 2019-07-03 In Reformers Teachers Writers Neal Lerner explores the distinction between curriculum and pedagogy in writing studies and the ways in which failing to attend to that distinction results in the failure of educational reform Lerner's mixed methods approach quantitative qualitative textual historical narrative and theoretical reflects the importance and effects of curriculum in a wide variety of settings whether in writing centers writing classrooms or students out of school lives as well as the many methodological approaches available to understand curriculum in writing studies The richness of this approach allows for multiple considerations of the distinction and relationship between pedagogy and curriculum Chapters are grouped into three parts disciplinary inquiries experiential inquiries and empirical inquiries exploring the presence and effect of curriculum and its relationship to pedagogy in multiple sites both historical and contemporary and for multiple stakeholders Reformers Teachers Writers calls out writing studies inattention to curriculum which hampers efforts to enact meaningful reform and to have an impact on larger conversations about education and writing The book will be invaluable to scholars teachers and administrators interested in rhetoric and composition writing studies and education

Organic Writing Assessment Bob Broad,Linda Adler-Kassner,Barry Alford,Jane Detweiler,Heidi Estrem,Susanmarie Harrington,Maureen McBride,Eric Stalions,Scott Weeden,2009-09-01 Educators strive to create assessment cultures in which they integrate evaluation into teaching and learning and match assessment methods with best instructional practice But how do teachers and administrators discover and negotiate the values that underlie their evaluations Bob Broad s 2003 volume What We Really Value introduced dynamic criteria mapping DCM as a method for eliciting locally informed context sensitive criteria for writing assessments The impact of DCM on assessment practice is beginning to emerge as more and more writing departments and programs adopt adapt or experiment with DCM approaches For the authors of Organic Writing Assessment the DCM experience provided not only an authentic assessment of their own programs but a nuanced language through which they can converse in the always vexing potentially divisive realm of assessment theory and practice Of equal interest are the adaptations these writers invented for Broad s original process to make DCM even more responsive to local needs and exigencies Organic Writing Assessment represents an important step in the evolution of writing assessment in higher education This volume documents the second generation of an assessment model that is regarded as scrupulously consistent with current theory it shows DCM s flexibility and presents an informed discussion of its limits and its potentials

Writing across Contexts Kathleen Blake Yancy,Liane Robertson,Kara Tacsak,2014-04-15 Addressing how composers transfer both knowledge about and practices of writing Writing across Contexts explores the grounding theory behind a specific composition curriculum called Teaching for Transfer TFT and analyzes the efficacy of the approach Finding that TFT courses aid students in transfer in ways that other kinds of composition courses do not the authors demonstrate that the content of this curriculum including its reflective practice provides a unique set of resources for students to call on and repurpose for new writing tasks The authors provide a brief historical review give attention to current curricular efforts designed to promote such transfer and develop new insights into the role of prior knowledge in students ability to transfer writing knowledge and practice presenting three models of how students respond to and use new knowledge assemblage remix and critical incident A timely and significant contribution to the field Writing across Contexts will be of interest to

The Role of the Library in the First College Year

Larry L. Hardesty, 2007 Published in partnership with the Association of College and Research Libraries a division of the American Library Association While the library is at the center of many campuses physically it is often an overlooked and underused resource in improving the learning and success of first year college students In this new volume librarians classroom faculty administrators and higher education researchers come together to explore the potential of the library in shaping the student experience Chapter authors explore structures and practices for helping students learn to navigate the college library use the Internet effectively and find analyze and incorporate information into their academic work a critical foundation for college success Thirteen case studies present detailed information on current practice from a variety of campus types

Post-process Theory

Thomas Kent, 1999 Breaking with the still dominant process tradition in composition studies post process theory or at least the different incarnations of post process theory discussed by the contributors represented in this collection of original essays endorses the fundamental idea that no codifiable or generalizable writing process exists or could exist Post process theorists hold that the practice of writing cannot be captured by a generalized process or a big theory Most post process theorists hold three assumptions about the act of writing writing is public writing is interpretive and writing is situated The first assumption is the commonsensical claim that writing constitutes a public interchange By interpretive act post process theorists generally mean something as broad as making sense of and not exclusively the ability to move from one code to another To interpret means more than merely to paraphrase it means to enter into a relationship of understanding with other language users And finally because writing is a public act that requires interpretive interaction with others writers always write from some position or some place Writers are never nowhere they are situated Leading theorists and widely published scholars in the field contributors are Nancy Blyler John Clifford Barbara Couture Nancy C DeJoy Sidney I Dobrin Elizabeth Ervin Helen Ewald David Foster Debra Journet Thomas Kent Gary A Olson Joseph Petraglia George Pullman David Russell and John Schilb

Successful Strategies for Teaching Undergraduate Research Marta Deyrup, Beth Bloom, 2013-09-11 Editors Marta Deyrup and Beth Bloom have brought together well known educators from the fields of library science communication composition and education to show you how to develop successful strategies for teaching undergraduates how to conduct basic research and write papers Chapters cover each step of the research process beginning appropriately with separate pieces from a librarian and from an academic on how to construct good research assignments Following chapters cover establishing the research question assessing the research process information ethics and the protocols of research and using new modes and media to communicate research findings The book fully explores current theories on pedagogy and provides practical demonstrations of how library instruction can reinforce critical thinking and set the groundwork in place for life long learning Each chapter contains an extensive bibliography for further reading

Writers Without Borders Lynn Z. Bloom, 2008-07-02 In Writers Without Borders Writing and Teaching Writing in Troubled Times Lynn Z Bloom presents groundbreaking research on the nature of essays and on the political philosophical ethical and pragmatic considerations that influence how we read write and teach them in times troubled by terrorism transgressive students and uses and abuses of the Internet Writers Without Borders reinforces Bloom's reputation for presenting innovative and sophisticated research with a writer's art and a teacher's heart Each of the eleven essays addresses in its own way the essay itself as one way to live and learn with others

Networked Process Helen Foster, 2007-08-01 Helen Foster problematizes one of the dominant metaphors in rhetoric and composition the notion of writing process and in turn offers an important and engaging new approach for the future of the discipline one that directly addresses the complexities challenges and opportunities for writing research in a postmodern world

Critical Expressivism Tara Roeder, Roseanne Gatto, 2015-04-15 Critical Expressivism is an ambitious attempt to re appropriate intellectual territory that has more often been charted by its detractors than by its proponents Indeed as Peter Elbow observes in his contribution to this volume As far as I can tell the term expressivist was coined and used only by people who wanted a word for people they disapproved of and wanted to discredit The editors and contributors to this collection invite readers to join them in a new conversation one informed by a belief that the term expressivism continues to have a vitally important function in our field

institutions of higher education have discussed ways to meet the needs of multilingual students the more recent increases in enrollment by international students have created opportunities for productive change across campuses particularly ways that units can collaborate to better meet those needs The chapters in this volume demonstrate that teaching effective communication skills to all students in ways that recognize the needs of multiple language users requires a shift in perspective that approaches multilingualism as an opportunity that is enhanced by the internationalization of higher education because it makes transparent the problems of current structures and disciplinary approaches in accessing those opportunities A goal of this collection is to address the economic structural disciplinary and pedagogical challenges of making this type of shift in bold and compassionate ways Chapters are organized into these four parts Program Level Challenges and Opportunities Opportunities for Enhancing Teacher Training Multilingualism and the Revision of First Year Writing and Integrating Writing Center Insights and reflect the perspectives of a variety of university language settings The contributions feature collaborative models and illustrate the need to rethink structures pedagogies assessment evaluation processes and teacher training for graduate and undergraduate students who will teach writing and other forms of communication
